

Table of contents

Preface	i
The Contexts of Knowing Susan Molyneux-Hodgson
Chapter I	17
Introduction: Knowing and Living in Academic Research Ulrike Felt
1. Epistemic living spaces	19
2. The co-production of research and society	23
3. New modes of knowledge production	24
4. Places of knowing and maps for orientation	26
5. Institutions of knowledge production	27
6. Changing frames: audit society and a growing trust in numbers	29
7. Structure of the study and methodological considerations	31
8. The structure of the book	35
Chapter II	41
Modes of Ordering and Boundaries that Matter in Academic Knowledge Production Ulrike Felt & Tereza Stöckelová
With contributions from: Lisa Garforth, Magdalena Górska, Ľubica Kobová, Marcela Linková, Morgan Meyer, Seppo Poutanen, Veronika Řepíková, Mariana Szapuová and Veronika Wöhrer
1. Introduction: the making of research environments and their moral orders	41
2. Geographies of reference: researchers' positioning work	51
2.1. Regions and nation states	52
2.2. Tacit geographies: centres/peripheries & East/West	58
2.3. Disciplinary maps and other epistemic orders	65
3. The politics of labelling research	74
3.1. 'Excellent science' and its others	75
3.2. Applied vs. basic research: an uneasy relationship	85
4. Assembling and ordering academic institutions	90
4.1. Administration: institutional cores and peripheries	91
4.2. Enterprise: competition outside and inside	94
4.3. Vision: making visible and invisible individuals	98
4.4. Vocation: the sociality of academic existence	100
4.5. Amoebic institutions	103
5. Purifying and merging the scientific, the social and the personal	105
5.1. Engaging with society?	106
5.2. Keeping society at a safe distance	110
6. Concluding remarks	112

Working Together Apart

Anne Kerr & Dagmar Lorenz-Meyer

With contributions from: Jutta Ahlbeck-Rehn, Alice Červinková, Ulrike Felt, Lisa Garforth, Marcela Linková, Susan Molyneux-Hodgson, Lisa Sigl, Tereza Stöckelová, Mariana Szapuová and Veronika Wöhrer

1. Introduction	127
2. Locating working together and working apart: networks of excellence clusters and work-nets in institutions	131
2.1. Networks of excellence clusters	131
2.2. Work-nets in institutions	132
2.3. Tensions in working together apart in the laboratory	133
2.4. Departmental anomie and networks of personal peers: working together apart in the social sciences	138
2.5. Togetherness in politics and practice	143
3. Relocating togetherness: the call for mobility and flexible working	145
3.1. Celebrating mobility: official discourses on the move	145
3.2. Unequal flows: gender and geopolitical stratification	146
3.3. Why mobility?	147
3.4. Anxieties, insecurities, resistance	150
3.5. Mobility in politics and practice	152
4. Locating inter/disciplinarity in knowledge work	153
4.1. Multi/inter/trans-disciplinarity in European science policies: an absent presence	153
4.2. Interdisciplinarity as relocating togetherness	155
4.3. The biosciences: interdisciplinary by default?	156
4.4. Disciplining the social sciences	159
4.5. Interdisciplinarity in policy and practice	162
5. Conclusion	163

Times and Trajectories in Academic Knowledge Production

Lisa Garforth & Alice Červinková

With contributions from: Ulrike Felt, Ismo Kantola, Zuzana Kiczková, Anne Kovalainen, Marcela Linková, Dagmar Lorenz-Meyer, Susan Molyneux-Hodgson, Seppo Poutanen, Mariana Szapuová, Lisa Sigl and Veronika Wöhrer

1. Introduction	169
2. Trajectories	172
2.1. Introduction: imagining excellence	172
2.2. Individual careers: trajectories and patchworks	174
2.3. Articulations: individual and collective trajectories	185
3. Everyday time	192
3.1. Introduction	192
3.2. (No) time to think?	195
3.3. Everyday time across epistemic living spaces	209
4. Conclusion: how do times add up?	219

Chapter V	227
Speaking KNOWING to Power
Susan Molyneux-Hodgson
Chapter VI	231
Creating and Inhabiting Epistemic Living Spaces: Concluding Reflections
Ulrike Felt
1. Normative machineries at work	233
2. Myths on/in contemporary research	235
3. Managing innovation and excellence: creativity lost in accounting?	237
4. Reassembling gender dimensions	238