

CONTENTS

Martin Kuna - Natalie Venclová: Introduction	7
Paradigms and prospects
Torsten Madsen: Archaeology between facts and fiction: the need for an explicit methodology	13
John Bintliff: "Whither archaeology?" revisited	24
Leo Klejn: Prehistory and archaeology	36
Martin Kuna: Pre-historic prehistory	43
Michael Shanks: The archaeological imagination: creativity, rhetoric and archaeological futures	52
Stanisław Tabaczyński: A future for the Marxist paradigm in Central European archaeology? The Polish case	69
John Collis: Celts, power and politics: whither Czech archaeology?	82
Jacek Lech: Social functions of archaeology in the 20th century	93
Mark Beech: Whither archaeozoology?	97
Arkadiusz Marciniak: Archaeology and palaeodemography: expectations and limitations	110
Environment and settlement
Carole L. Crumley: Cultural implications of historic climatic change	121
Jaromír Beneš: Erosion and accumulation processes in the Late Holocene of Bohemia, in relation to prehistoric and medieval landscape occupation	133
Dagmar Dreslerová: A settlement-economic model for a prehistoric microregion: settlement activities in the Vinoř - stream basin during the Hallstatt period ...	145
Natalie Venclová: Settlement area, production area and industrial zone	161
Archaeology and language
Marek Zvelebil: Indo-European origins and the agricultural transition in Europe ...	173
Pavel M. Dolukhanov: Archaeology and linguistics: theories old and new	204
Alexander Häusler: Über Archäologie und Ursprung der Indogermanen	211
Ruth Megaw - Vincent Megaw: The prehistoric Celts: identity and contextuality ...	230
Methodological issues
Ian Hodder: Towards a contextual methodology	249
Andreas Zimmermann: Some aspects of the application of correspondence analysis in archaeology	255
Vladimír Salač: The density of archaeological finds in settlement features of the La Tène period	264
Martin Gojda: Archaeologists or aviators? A contribution to the discussion on aerial archaeology in Britain	277

Social models

Alasdair Whittle: The scale of difference and the nature of community: reflections on Neolithic social relations	283
Stephen Shennan: Diffusion revisited	293
Jan Rulf: Provinces, regions and sub-regions: the Labe/Elbe group of Linear Pottery Culture example	299