

Contents

Abstract	7
Abstrakt	9
Abstraktum	10
1. Social structures and policies	13
1.1 Structures and policies: normal or reversed sequence	14
1.2 Policies: the state in the forefront	17
1.3 Structures: actors in the background	19
1.4 Middle-class dynamics and tensions	20
1.5 Conclusion	24
2. The middle class	26
2.1 Changing social hegemony: from working class to middle class	26
2.2 Economic reforms: neglect of the middle classes	29
2.3 The welfare state and the social structure: feedback	32
2.4 The economy, welfare and the distribution of income	34
2.5 Economic expectations and political support	37
2.6 Conclusion	40
3. Pensioners	42
3.1 The communist regime: pensioners as the poor	43
3.2 The transition to democracy: pensioners as a constituency	45
3.3 The current reform debate: pensioners as captives	49
3.4 Conclusion	54
4. The non-working and the working poor	59
4.1 New situation, new policies	60
4.2 Easy exits from the labour market	62
4.3 The different faces of poverty	64
4.4 Preventing poverty by redistribution or by employment	72
4.5 Conclusion	79
References	81
Data sources	85
Abbreviations	87