

CONTENTS

Preface	7
General introduction	9
Part One – Rethinking policies on young people from lower-income neighbourhoods, in the light of the context of today and the lessons of the past
Introduction	13
CHAPTER 1 – CLARIFYING THE TERMINOLOGY AND CONCEPTS	15
1.1. Youth and young people	15
1.2. “Lower-income neighbourhoods”	16
1.3. Violence and crime	18
1.4. Exclusion, inclusion and integration	20
CHAPTER 2 – UNDERSTANDING THE CONTEXT AND TRENDS – THE GROWING GAP BETWEEN THE NEEDS OF YOUNG PEOPLE AND SOCIETY’S ABILITY TO RESPOND	22
2.1. Structure of and changes in lower-income neighbourhoods	22
2.2. Trends among young people	24
2.3. Weakening of traditional integration models in lower-income neighbourhoods	25
CHAPTER 3 – ANALYSING THE REACTION OF YOUNG PEOPLE FROM LOWER-INCOME NEIGHBOURHOODS – (RE)CONSTRUCTING IDENTITY	35
3.1. The peer groups: forms of youth sociability	35
3.2. The neighbourhood: refuge or ghetto	40
3.3. Assertion of religious identities	42
CHAPTER 4 – TAKING STOCK OF POLICIES	44
4.1. Inadequacy of general sectoral policies	44
4.2. Emergence and limits of remedial policies: from coercive to preventive approaches	45
4.3. The emergence of “third generation policies”: the search for comprehensive preventive approaches	54
CHAPTER 5 – FRAMING AND IMPLEMENTING MORE APPROPRIATE POLICIES	58
5.1. The principles of comprehensive preventive approaches and advances in their application	58
5.2. Limits and obstacles to comprehensive preventive approaches	61
5.3. Drawing up general guidelines for framing and implementing more appropriate policies	65

Part Two – Analysing and moving beyond the stereotypes

Introduction	71
CHAPTER 1 – GENERAL APPROACH TO THE STEREOTYPES IN DIALOGUE ON SOCIAL POLICIES	73
1.1. Obstacles to dialogue on joint responsibility for the well-being of all	73
1.2. General analysis of stereotypes	73
1.3. Moving beyond the stereotypes	77
1.4. A few fundamental methodological rules	79
1.5. Decoding approach: questions and indicators	80
CHAPTER 2 – STEREOTYPES CONCERNING DIGNITY AND RECOGNITION	85
2.1. Original stereotype: “Young people from lower-income neighbourhoods have little or no regard for accepted social norms”	85
2.2. Generalisation of the original stereotype: “Young people from lower-income neighbourhoods are going through a serious identity crisis”	88
2.3. Arguments justifying the generalisation of the original stereotype: “Young people take over public places”	93
2.4. Justification for corrective and punitive measures: “Young people make public areas unsafe”	97
2.5. Arguments stressing the need for such measures: “The police no longer come into the neighbourhoods”	101
CHAPTER 3 – STEREOTYPES CONCERNING AUTONOMY AND OCCUPATIONAL FULFILMENT	106
3.1. Original stereotype: “Young people prefer easy money from the street and the informal economy to serious work”	106
3.2. Generalisation of the original stereotype: “Young people have it too easy. They are not prepared to adapt to reality and work for long-term goals”	110
3.3. Arguments justifying the generalisation of the original stereotype: “They do not want to attend vocational training”	115
3.4. Justification for corrective and punitive measures: “Young people from lower-income neighbourhoods are misfits in a world that prizes mobility above all else”	118
CHAPTER 4 – STEREOTYPES CONCERNING AUTONOMY AND PERSONAL AND FAMILY FULFILMENT	123
4.1. Original stereotype: “Young people from lower-income neighbourhoods are incapable of accepting responsibility for themselves or for others”	123
4.2. Generalisation of the original stereotype: “Young people from lower-income neighbourhoods drop out of school”	123
4.3. Arguments justifying the generalisation: “Boy-girl relationships have become more tense in lower-income neighbourhoods”	127
4.4. Justification for corrective and punitive measures: “In health matters, young people from lower-income neighbourhoods engage in high-risk behaviour”	133

CHAPTER 5 – STEREOTYPES CONCERNING PARTICIPATION AND CITIZEN COMMITMENT	140
5.1. Original stereotype: “Young people from lower-income neighbourhoods play no part in local development”	140
5.2. Generalisation of the original stereotype: “Young people are not politically active”	143
5.3. Arguments justifying the generalisation of the original stereotype: “Young people do not vote, and are not interested in voting”	147
5.4. Arguments stressing the need for such measures: “Participation is the answer”	150
Bibliography	155
Part Three – Indicators: description and references
Introduction	165
CHAPTER 1 – GENERAL APPROACH	167
1.1. Variables	167
1.2. The limits of the institutional statistics system	168
1.3. A new statistical approach to lower-income neighbourhoods	169
CHAPTER 2 – STEREOTYPES CONCERNING DIGNITY AND RECOGNITION	171
2.1. “Young people from lower-income neighbourhoods have little or no regard for accepted social norms”	171
2.2. “Young people from lower-income neighbourhoods are going through a serious identity crisis”	176
2.3. “Young people take over public areas”	181
2.4. “Young people make public areas unsafe”	185
2.5. “The police now regard lower-income neighbourhoods as no-go areas”	188
CHAPTER 3 – STEREOTYPES CONCERNING AUTONOMY AND OCCUPATIONAL FULFILMENT	193
3.1. “Young people in lower-income neighbourhoods prefer the easy money afforded by the informal economy”	193
3.2. “Young people do not believe in hard work; they are not equipped for employment”	197
3.3. “Young people are not interested in vocational training”	203
3.4. “Young people in lower-income neighbourhoods are ill-adapted to a world which puts a premium on mobility”	206
CHAPTER 4 – STEREOTYPES CONCERNING AUTONOMY AND PERSONAL AND FAMILY FULFILMENT	210
4.2. “Young people from lower-income neighbourhoods drop out of school”	210
4.3. “Boy-girl relationships have become more tense in lower-income neighbourhoods”	217
4.4. “In health matters, young people from lower-income neighbourhoods engage in high-risk behaviour”	221
CHAPTER 5 – STEREOTYPES CONCERNING PARTICIPATION AND CITIZEN COMMITMENT	226
5.1. “Young people are not playing their part in activities contributing to local development”	226
5.2. “Young people are not politically active”	230
5.3. “Young people do not vote and are not interested in voting”	234
5.4. “Participation (in neighbourhood bodies) is the answer”	238