

Contents

Preface vii

Prelude: All Anthropology Is Psychological	1
1 The Psychology of "Primitive" Peoples	5
Perception, or "Do You See What I See?"	6
Motivation, or "The Natives Are Restless Tonight"	11
Cognition, or "Thinking Can Make It So"	15
2 Psychoanalytic Anthropology	19
Elements of Psychoanalysis	19
The Origins of Psychoanalytic Anthropology	23
Psychoanalysis and Clothing	26
Summary and Critique	28
3 Configurations of Culture and Personality	31
Configurations of Culture	34
To and from the South Seas	40
Summary	44
4 Basic and Modal Personality	47
Basic Personality Structure (BPS)	48
The Modal Personality Approach (MP)	51
Projective Tests:
Rorschach and Thematic Apperception	54
Applications of Projective Tests	56
Summary	59

5 National Character Studies	61
The Yellow Peril	62
On the Western Front	64
The Slavic Soul	66
The Lonely Crowd	69
And Elsewhere	73
For Further Consideration	74
Interlude One: The Crisis in Culture and Personality	79
The Continuity Assumption	79
The Uniformity Assumption	80
The Causal Assumption	81
The Projective Assumption	81
The Objectivity Assumption	82
What's Next?	83
6 Cross-Cultural Correlations	87
The Yale Synthesis	87
Correlations and Customs	90
Galton's Problem	94
Male Initiation Rites	95
Causes of Incest Taboos	98
Additional Studies	101
7 The Return of the Repressed	105
Instinct and Culture	105
Symbolic Wounds	107
Insight and Identity	109
Psychohistory and the Interpretation of Myth	111
Psychosocial Adaptation	113
Psychoanalytic Anthropology Redux	114
8 Social Structure and Personality	119
Materialist Approaches	119
Positionalist Approaches	122
Interactionist Approaches	125
Studies Relevant to Trauma and Personality	129

9	Focusing on Behavior	135
	Intensive On-Site Observation	135
	Human Ethology	138
	Attachment, Separation, and Crowding	139
	Feminist Psychological Anthropology	143
	Sociobiology	144
	Concluding Thoughts	146
10	Cognitive Anthropology	149
	Ethnosemantics	150
	Cognitive Development:
	Stages, Styles, and Maps	154
	Race, Culture, and Intelligence	159
	Schema Theory and Connectionism	161
	The Question of Motivation	162
	Personal Semantic Networks	163
	Cognitive Analysis of Personal Narrative	165
11	Shamans, Alternative States, and Schizophrenia	169
	Shamans	170
	Alternative States of Consciousness	174
	Mental Illness and Society	180
	“Schizophrenia” and Mental Illness across Cultures	183
	Different Approaches to the Treatment of Schizophrenia	186
12	Emotions and Selfhood	191
	Role, Self, and Identity	196
	Psychology and Cultural Change	198
	Interlude Two: Science versus Interpretation	205
	Ethnopsychology and Ifaluk Emotion	207
	The Defense of Human Nature	209
	The Psychological Power of Emotional Force	211
	Charting New Directions	213

13	Person-Centered Ethnography	215
	Person-Centered Interviewing	216
	Value of Person-Centered Ethnography	218
	A New Anthropology of Self and Experience	222
	The Anthropology of Narrative	227
	Conclusion	233
14	About the Body	235
	The Body as a Cultural Construction	236
	Phenomenology and Embodiment	238
	Pain and the Impact of Culture	242
	Narrative and Chronic Illness	245
	Narratives and Social Contexts	247
	Limits of Phenomenology: A Critique	247
15	The Return of Childhood	251
	Influence of Psychological Theories	252
	Enculturation	257
	Children's Culture	261
	New Research on Attachment	264
	Language in Action	268
	Anthropological Contributions to the Study of Childhood	272
	Postlude: All Psychology Is Cultural	275
	References	279
	Index	303