

Contents

List of contributors	vii
Acknowledgements	x
1 Human rights, liberal democracies and challenges of national security Kasey McCall-Smith, Andrea Birdsall and Elisenda Casanas Adam	1
PART I HUMAN RIGHTS TRANSITIONS – THEORETICAL DEBATES AND DOCTRINAL CHALLENGES
2 Key challenges to human rights in democracies at a time of transition: Where to now? Francesca Klug	16
3 The forgotten principle of fraternité : Re-interpreting the last three articles of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights Yota Negishi	41
4 Human rights protection and state capacity: The doctrinal implications of the statist character of international human rights law Mátyás Bódig	64
PART II CO-OPTION AND EJECTION OF HUMAN RIGHTS IN LIBERAL DEMOCRACIES
5 US counterterrorism and the denial of fundamental rights from torture to fair trial Kasey McCall-Smith	90
6 Counterterrorism and challenges to human rights: Justifying drones and targeted killing as acts of self-defence Andrea Birdsall	116

7	The alleged backlash against human rights: Evidence from Denmark and the UK Jacques Hartmann and Samuel White	139
PART III HUMAN RIGHTS AND NATIONAL SECURITY CHALLENGES BEYOND THE STATE
8	Surveillance measures and the exception of national security in the case law of the European Court of Human Rights Pierre Notermans	165
9	Constructing a right to counterterrorism: Law, politics and the Security Council Vivek Bhatt	189
10	Non-state actors that aspire to be states: White spots on the international human rights protection map? Linda Hamid	216
11	Reflections on human rights and contemporary challenges raised by national security discourse Kasey McCall-Smith, Andrea Birdsall and Elisenda Casanas Adam	242
	Index	255