

Contents

Editors and contributors	ix
Introduction	xiii
MARCO ODELLO AND PIOTR LUBIŃSKI
Acknowledgements	xvii

PART I

Theoretical and historical framework	1
1 Raphael Lemkin's legacy in international law AGNIESZKA BIĘCZYK-MISSALA	3
2 The crime of genocide in Ukraine (1932–1933) OLGA WASIUTA	16
3 Kingpins of contention: local-level dynamics of mobilization in the Rwandan genocide HANNA SCHIEVE	38

PART II

International and national legal dimensions	65
4 The crime of genocide in its (nearly) infinite domestic variety TAMÁS HOFFMANN	67
5 Responsibility of members of the government and other public officials pursuant to Article IV of the 1948 UN Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide KAMIL BOCZEK	98

6	Transnational corporations' liability for genocide under international law	117
	ŁUKASZ DAWID DAJBROWSKI
PART III
Challenges and new developments		139
7	Probing the boundaries of the Genocide Convention: children as a protected group	141
	RUTH AMIR
8	Interaction between genocide and superior responsibility: conviction for a special-intent crime without proving special intent?	165
	MICHALA CHADIMOVÁ
9	'Kill them all and let God sort them out', or why religiously motivated terrorism should not be confused with the crime of genocide	191
	MILENA INGELEVIČ-CITAK AND MARCIN MARCINKO
10	Blurring the distinction between ethnic cleansing and genocide	212
	TAMAS VINCE ADANY
11	Genocide and culture: revisiting their relationship 70 years after the Genocide Convention	236
	MARCO ODELLO
12	Social media incitement to genocide: ECHR countries' perspective	262
	PIOTR ŁUBIŃSKI
	Index	282