

Contents

List of Figures	xiii
List of Tables	xv
Quick Preview of the Main Ideas	xvii
1. The Case for Wellbeing as the Goal of Government and Constraints on Policy-making	1
Preview	1
Quo Vadis? The Basic Idea	1
A Brief History	6
How Wellbeing Could Fit into Policy Evaluations and Appraisals	18
The Realities of Policy-making and the Use of Wellbeing Information	22
Conclusion and the Way Ahead	34
Literature	36
2. Wellbeing Measurement and Policy Design—Measures, Key Findings, and Wellbeing Frameworks	40
Preview	40
Direct Measurement of Wellbeing	40
Influences of Survey Design on Wellbeing Measures	58
Stylized Facts on Wellbeing	59
Key Lessons on Wellbeing	64
Estimates of Key Wellbeing Effects	74
Example: The Long-run Wellbeing Benefits of More Money—What We Now Know from a Swedish Lottery	75
General Wellbeing Lessons for Policy: Theory, Evidence, and Implications	81
What We Do Not Yet Know or Are on the Fence about	112
An Economic Framework and Some Applications	117
A Taxonomy of Government Expenditures	129
Conclusion and the Way Ahead	132
Literature	133
3. Wellbeing Policy Evaluation and Appraisal: Data, Methods, Literature, Rules of Thumb, and Technical Standards	149
Preview	149
A Non-formal Introduction to Wellbeing CEA	152
Wellbeing CEA Methodology	161
Wellbeing CEA Examples	208
Datasets on Wellbeing	230

List of Figures

0.1. Cost per WELLBY of interventions at work, in the environment, and government services	xviii
1.1. Illustrative policy discovery processes when knowledge of possibilities is imperfect: Policy discovery process 1	31
1.2. Illustrative policy discovery processes when knowledge of possibilities is imperfect: Policy discovery process 2	31
1.3. Illustrative policy discovery processes when knowledge of possibilities is imperfect: Policy discovery process 3	31
2.1. Excerpt from DRM surveys	49
2.2. Example of Hypothetical Scenario Survey	52
2.3. Frequency distribution of life satisfaction in the United Kingdom, France, and Denmark	63
2.4. Frequency distribution of life satisfaction in the United Kingdom	64
2.5. The contribution of different socio-economic factors to explained adult life satisfaction in the United Kingdom	65
2.6. Life expectancy at birth in years for males in the United Kingdom	71
2.7. Life expectancy at birth in years for females in the United Kingdom	71
2.8. Period expectation of life at birth in years in England and Wales	72
2.9. Life expectancy, healthy life expectancy, and years spent in poor health from birth for males	73
2.10. Life expectancy, healthy life expectancy, and years spent in poor health from birth for females	74
2.11. The national socio-economic capital-production-investment cycle	119
2.12. Overview of the IAPT programme analytical framework	125
2.13. Overview of the Incredible Years analytical framework	128
3.1. Cost per WELLBY of interventions at work, in the environment, and government services	150
3.2. Wellbeing cost-effectiveness decisions when budgets are high or low	168
3.3. Wellbeing cost-effectiveness decisions: results of bargaining	178
3.4. Wellbeing cost-effectiveness decisions: danger of escalating costs	179
3.5. Causal structure of the model	222
3.6. Reduction in GHQ12 scores of treated patients	224
3.7. Reduction in depression rate of whole population	225