

Contents

List of figures		xii
List of plates		xiv
List of tables		xvi
Preface		xvii
Acknowledgements		xx
List of abbreviations		xxii
<hr/>
1	The dilemma of sustainability	1
1.1	Are we all environmentalists now?	1
1.2	Nature in the Anthropocene	4
1.3	The idea of development	9
1.4	Sustainable development as Babel fish	13
1.5	What is 'green' development?	17
1.6	Outline of the book	18
2	The roots of sustainable development	22
2.1	Environmentalism and the emergence of sustainable development	22
2.2	Nature as resource	23
2.2.1	Imperialism and nature	23
2.2.2	Fields, forests and efficiency	25
2.2.3	The wise use of nature	26
2.3	The protection of nature	28
2.3.1	Protected areas	28
2.3.2	Conservation and development	31
2.4	Ecology and sustainability	33
2.4.1	Ecology and resource management	33
2.4.2	Ecology and colonial resources	36
2.4.3	Ecology and development planning	38
2.4.4	The ecological impacts of development	40
2.5	A global environment	41
2.5.1	Environmentalism's challenge	41
2.5.2	Spaceships and limits	42
2.5.3	Global science and sustainable development	45
2.6	Making sustainable development	47

3	Making mainstream sustainable development	49
3.1	Beyond environmentalism: the Stockholm Conference 1972	49
3.2	Environment and human needs: the Brundtland Commission	53
3.3	Environment and development: the Rio Conference and Agenda 21	58
3.3.1	The road to Rio	58
3.3.2	The Rio Declaration	60
3.3.3	Agenda 21	62
3.4	Forests and biodiversity	64
3.4.1	Rio's Forest Principles	64
3.4.2	The Convention on Biological Diversity	66
3.5	Climate change	67
3.5.1	The IPCC and climate change	67
3.5.2	The Framework Convention on Climate Change	68
3.5.3	Kyoto to Paris	69
3.6	Poverty and sustainability	72
3.6.1	The legacy of Rio	72
3.6.2	Poverty: the Millennium Development Goals	73
3.6.3	Rio+10	75
3.7	Rebooting sustainable development: Rio+20	77
3.8	The Sustainable Development Goals	79
4	Sustainability and natural capital	81
4.1	The economics of nature	81
4.2	Ecosystem services as natural capital	83
4.2.1	The idea of ecosystem services	83
4.2.2	Mainstreaming ecosystem services	85
4.2.3	Ecosystem services and poverty	90
4.2.4	Valuing ecosystem services	92
4.2.5	The awkwardness of ecosystems	94
4.3	Strong and weak sustainability	95
4.4	Calculating sustainability	98
4.5	Trade-offs, equity and complexity	101
4.6	Sustainable economies?	104
5	Neoliberalism and the green economy	108
5.1	Neoliberalism and nature	108
5.1.1	Neoliberal environmentalism	108
5.1.2	Environmentalism and radical thought	110
5.2	Capitalism and nature	112
5.3	The green economy	114
5.3.1	Sustainable development and the green economy	114
5.3.2	Ecological modernisation	115
5.4	Market-based environmentalism	119
5.5	Markets for nature	121
5.5.1	Markets for ecosystem services	121
5.5.2	Payments for ecosystem services (PES)	123
5.5.3	Markets for sustainability	125

6	Corporations and sustainability	128
6.1	Development's risks	128
6.1.1	Manufactured risk	128
6.1.2	The politics of risk	130
6.1.3	Regulating hazard	131
6.2	Greening business	133
6.2.1	Environmentalisms versus the corporation	133
6.2.2	The 'green' corporation	135
6.3	Greening consumption	139
6.3.1	Linking production and consumption	139
6.3.2	Certification schemes	141
6.3.3	Regulating timber	146
6.4	Green mining?	149
7	Sustainability and degrowth	156
7.1	Growth and development	156
7.2	Green critiques of developmentalism	158
7.2.1	Ecologism	158
7.2.2	Deep ecology	161
7.2.3	Bioregionalism	164
7.2.4	Ecofeminism	164
7.3	Promethean environmentalism and its critics	166
7.4	Limits to growth	167
7.5	Degrowth	169
8	The political forest	176
8.1	The end of the forest	176
8.2	Towards a political ecology	179
8.3	The politics of knowing	181
8.4	Narratives of deforestation	182
8.5	The political ecology of deforestation	185
8.6	Forest capitalism	187
8.7	Forest people	191
8.8	Forests for carbon	195
8.9	Future forests	201
9	Desertification	204
9.1	Fear of deserts	204
9.2	Crisis in the Sahel	207
9.3	Drought and drylands	210
9.4	Desertification as policy fact	211
9.5	Desertification myths and policy	214
9.6	Dryland optimism	218
10	Famine, food and farming	224
10.1	The ghost of Malthus	224
10.2	The political ecology of famine	226
10.3	Crisis and nexus	229

10.4	Green revolutions and their discontents	230
10.5	The problem of pesticides	232
10.6	New revolutions	235
10.7	Indigenous intensification	237
11	The political ecology of biodiversity	245
11.1	Conservation as politics	245
11.2	Conservation power	246
11.3	Conservation ideas	248
11.4	Making space for nature	250
	11.4.1 Nature, nation and territory	250
	11.4.2 National parks and other protected areas	252
	11.4.3 Dream parks	253
11.5	Spaces of exclusion	255
	11.5.1 Imposing wilderness	255
	11.5.2 Conservation displacement	256
	11.5.3 Benefits from parks	258
	11.5.4 Parks for people	260
	11.5.5 Conservation and indigenous people	263
11.6	Mainstreaming conservation	263
	11.6.1 Conservation and development	263
	11.6.2 Conservation and poverty	265
	11.6.3 Integrating conservation with development	266
11.7	Neoliberal conservation	269
	11.7.1 Private sector conservation	269
	11.7.2 Biodiversity offsetting	271
	11.7.3 Conservation's corporations	273
12	Engineering development	277
12.1	The power of infrastructure	277
12.2	Modernity's grip	278
12.3	Rebuilding the world	280
12.4	Dreams and schemes	281
12.5	Dams and resettlement	285
12.6	Downstream impacts	288
12.7	Opposition to dam construction	294
12.8	Making dams that work	297
	12.8.1 Assessing impacts	297
	12.8.2 The World Commission on Dams	298
	12.8.3 After the Commission	302
12.9	Dams and sustainability?	304
	12.9.1 'Green' power and the new dams rush	304
	12.9.2 Why dams still fail	305
	12.9.3 Turning losers into winners	307
	12.9.4 Letting rivers be rivers	308

13	Green development: reformism or radicalism?	312
	13.1 In search of sustainability	312
	13.2 The political ecology of transition	313
	13.3 Sustainability from below	316
	13.4 Resistance for sustainability	319
	13.5 Social movements and transition	321
	13.6 Green development: reformism or radicalism?	324
	References	327
	Index	393