

DETAILED CONTENTS

Preface	xiii
Django Paris and Maisha T. Winn
Acknowledgments	xxi
About the Editors	xxiii
PART I: TRUST, FEELING, AND CHANGE: WHAT WE LEARN, WHAT WE SHARE, WHAT WE DO
Introduction to Part I	1
Maisha T. Winn
1. Too Close to the Work/There Is Nothing Right Now	3
Daysi Diaz-Strong, Maria Luna-Duarte, Christina Gómez, and Erica R. Meiners
The Political Landscape	6
Researching Feelings	9
Depression	10
Fear (or Lack of Fear)	12
Shame and Shifting Contexts	13
Conclusions: Reshaping Our Work	16
Reflective Questions	18
Note	18
References	18
2. The Space Between Listening and Storying: Foundations for Projects in Humanization	21
Valerie Kinloch and Timothy San Pedro
Vignettes in Stories and Storying	23
A Theoretical Consideration: Listening and Projects in Humanization	26
Methodological Challenges: Listening to Ourselves, Interacting With Others	29
“Do You Have a Second to Talk?” Answering by Continuing the Dialogic Spiral	33
Becoming and Belonging in the Space Between	37

Implications for Projects in Humanization	39
Reflective Questions	41
References	41
3. Humanizing Research With LGBTQ Youth Through Dialogic Communication, Consciousness Raising, and Action	43
Mollie V. Blackburn
Working With LGBTQ Youth at the Attic	44
Humanizing Fieldwork: Listening, Learning, and Mentoring With Youth	46
Dehumanizing Fieldwork: Recognizing, Reflecting, and Revising	49
Humanizing Analysis: Filling in Gaps	52
Becoming More Fully Human Through Action	54
Reflective Questions	56
Note	56
References	56

PART II: NAVIGATING INSTITUTIONS AND COMMUNITIES AS PARTICIPATORY ACTIVIST RESEARCHERS: TENSIONS, POSSIBILITIES, AND TRANSFORMATIONS 59

Introduction to Part II	59
Maisha T. Winn
4. Humanizing Research in Dehumanizing Spaces: The Challenges and Opportunities of Conducting Participatory Action Research With Youth in Schools	63
Jason G. Irizarry and Tara M. Brown
Methodological and Epistemological Foundations of PAR	64
PAR, Pedagogy, and K–12 Education	65
Our PAR Project Descriptions	67
Project FUERTE (Future Urban Educators Conducting Research to Transform Teacher Education)	67
Project FUERTE at Metro High School	68
Project FUERTE at Rana High School	68
Action Research Into School Exclusion (ARISE)	69
Student Solidarity Project (SSP)	70
The Challenges and Opportunities of Our PAR Projects	70
The Pedagogical Realm	71
“Teachers Don’t Want to Hear That!” The Pedagogical Implications of Humanizing Research	71
Reflections on Pedagogical Challenges and Opportunities	73
The Political Realm	74
When in Doubt, Shut It Down:
The Political Implications of Humanizing Research	75
Reflections on Political Challenges and Opportunities	77

“I Am Smart, a Researcher, a Student”:
Final Thoughts on Possibilities	77
Reflective Questions	79
References	79
5. Activist Ethnography With Indigenous Youth: Lessons
From Humanizing Research on Language and Education	81
Teresa L. McCarty, Leisy T. Wyman, and Sheilah E. Nicholas
Situating Indigenous Youth Language Research	82
Presenting the Ethnographic Vignettes	84
Listening “With Ears to Hear”
Youth Testimony: Teresa’s Vignette	84
Affirming Strength Amid Loss: Sheilah’s Vignette	87
Humanizing “Insider-Outsider”
Language Use in Endangered-Language
Settings: Leisy’s Vignette	91
Lessons Learned in Working With Indigenous Youth in
Endangered-Language Settings	95
Reflective Questions	100
Notes	100
References	101
6. Critical Media Ethnography: Youth Media Research	105
Korina Jocson
Beginning and Evolving Inquiry	106
Toward Critical Media Ethnography	107
Example 1: Symbolic Creativity in Youth Media	108
Inquiry Through Participation	108
The Case of Naier	111
Example 2: Polycentrism in Youth Media	116
The Case of Adriel and Karen	117
Digitality, Visuality, and Humanizing Research	119
Reflective Questions	121
Notes	121
References	122

PART III: THE COMPLEX NATURE OF POWER, RELATIONSHIPS, AND RESPONSIBILITIES 125

Introduction to Part III	125
Django Paris
7. La Carta de Responsabilidad: The Problem of Departure	129
Ariana Mangual Figueroa
Encountering La Carta	132
Revisiting La Carta	134
Reexamining La Carta	136
Example 1	136

Reflecting on La Carta	141
Reflective Questions	144
Notes	144
References	145
8. Doing Double Dutch Methodology: Playing With the Practice of Participant Observer	147
Keisha Green
Toward a Double Dutch Methodology	149
“Learning the Ropes” Before Playing the Field: Exploring My Researcher Positionality	149
“Plant Both Feet Before You Start to Alternate [Them]”: Theoretical Playing Ground	153
Keeping Time and Rhythm: Playing With Participant Observation	156
Dismounts and Conclusions	158
Reflective Questions	158
Note	159
References	159
9. Revisiting the Keres Study to Envision the Future: Engaging Indigenous Pueblo Youth in Intergenerational Humanizing Research and Praxis	161
Eunice Romero-Little, Christine Sims, and A-dae Romero
A Cultural Portrait of a Young, Gifted Pueblo Man	162
The Keres Study: Giftedness From a Pueblo Perspective	163
Culture, Learning, and Pueblo Giftedness	164
Contested Indigeneity in an Educational Context	165
Giftedness: In the Eyes of the Beholder	166
Reclaiming Learning and the Right to Learn	167
Retrospection: Gifted or Not Gifted?	168
Revisiting the Keres Study: Perpetuating Indigenous Giftedness	169
Reflective Questions	172
Notes	172
References	173

PART IV: REVISITING OLD CONVERSATIONS TOWARD NEW APPROACHES IN HUMANIZING RESEARCH 175

Introduction to Part IV	175
Django Paris
10. Why I Study Culture, and Why It Matters: Humanizing Ethnographies in Social Science Research	179
David E. Kirkland
“Your Work Lacks Rigor”: Defending Ethnographies	180

Dominant Scripts and Notes in the Margins:
Imagining Ethnographically	182
The Ethnography of Literacy Among the Guys: (Per)forming Cultural “I”dentities in Texts and Personal Reflections on Authored Selves	183
The Ethnographic Process: Engaging and Explaining the Guys’ Literacy Practices	185
The Ethics of Ethnography: Representing the Guys’ Literacy Practices	189
Appropriating Race in Identity Formation: Theory in Ethnography as a Complex Racial Lens	192
Conclusion	197
Reflective Questions	199
References	199
11. Critical for Whom? Theoretical and Methodological Dilemmas in Critical Approaches to Language Research	201
Mariana Souto-Manning
Critical for Whom? Challenging Ethnocentric Research Practices	201
The Study of Language in Use	203
Theoretical Dilemmas	204
Methodological Dilemmas	205
Critical Narrative Analysis	206
CNA in Action	207
Geography or Gender? Josi’s Dropping-Out Narrative	209
Retention and Dropping-Out: Neide’s Narrative	210
Elena’s Story: Until Fourth Grade	211
Across Narratives	213
Praxically Humanizing Research	214
A Culture Circle in Action	214
Implications: Critical Narrative Analysis as Praxis	218
So What? Revising Theoretical and Methodological Dilemmas	220
Reflective Questions	220
Note	221
References	221
12. R-Words: Refusing Research	223
Eve Tuck and K. Wayne Yang
Axiom I: The Subaltern Can Speak, but Is Only Invited to Speak Her/Our Pain.	226
Axiom II: There Are Some Forms of Knowledge That the Academy Doesn’t Deserve	232
Axiom III: Research May Not Be the Intervention That Is Needed	236
Theorizing Refusal	237

Culmination	243
Reflective Questions	245
Notes	245
References	246

Epilogue: Reflecting Forward on Humanizing Approaches	249
Maisha T. Winn

Contributors	253
---------------------	------------

Author Index	259
---------------------	------------

Subject Index	265
----------------------	------------

11	Critical for Whom? Theoretical and Methodological Dilemmas in Critical Approaches to Language Research	161
101	Note
101	Critical for Whom? Challenging Ethnocentric Research Practices	161
101	The Study of Language in Use	161
101	Theoretical Dilemmas	161
101	Methodological Dilemmas	161
101	Critical Narrative Analysis	161
101	CNA in Action	161
101	Geography or Gender? Just a Question of Perspective	161
101	Research and Drawing Out: Notes on Narrative	161
101	Elana's Story: Linguistic Gender	161
101	Across Narratives	161
101	Practically Humanizing Research	161
101	A Culture Circle in Action	161
101	Implications: Critical Narrative Analysis as Praxis	161
101	So What? Revisiting Theoretical and Methodological Dilemmas	161
101	Reflective Questions	161
101	Note	161
101	References	161

12	PART IV: REVISITING OLD CONVERSATIONS
12	NEW APPROACHES IN HUMANIZING RESEARCH
12	Axiom I: The Subaltern Can Speak, but is Only Invited to	271
12	Speak Her/Our Pain	271
12	Axiom II: There Are Some Forms of Knowledge	271
12	That the Academy Doesn't Do	271
12	Axiom III: Research May Not Be the	271
12	Intervention That is Needed	271
12	Theorizing Refusal	271