

contents

Preface, vii

Acknowledgments, xi

PART I: COMMON SENSE AND FICTIVE UNIVERSES 1

1. Making Common Sense 3

The Sense of Common Sense, 3 An Intertextual Construct, 13 On Framing in "Life" and "Art," 21 Play and the Manipulation of Context,
27 Notes, 40

2. Some Operations and Affinities 47

Notes, 53

PART II: MAKING NONSENSE 55

3. Reversals and Inversions 57

Organizing Experience, 57 Anomaly, Ambiguity, and Ambivalence, 60
Proper Nots, 62 Taking Things Back, 63 Inverting Classes, 66
Reversible Texts, 68 Discourse That Denies Itself, 72 The Inversion of Metaphor, 77 Notes, 81

4. Play with Boundaries 85

The Horizon of the Situation, 85 The Threat of Nonsense, 88
Misdirection, 89 Surpluses of Signification, 93 Deficiencies of Signification, 103 Manifesting the Implicit, 107 Notes, 112

5. Play with Infinity 116

The Paradox of Infinity, 116 Play Time, 118 Repetition and Quotation, 120 Nesting, 123 Circularity, 129 Serializing, 133
Infinite Causality, 138 Notes, 143

6. The Uses of Simultaneity	146
Marking Simultaneity, 146	Narrative Space, 150
153	Multiple Worlds, 153
Simultaneity and Form, 154	Discontinuity, 157
The Convergence of Disparity, 159	The Terrible Pun, 161
The Portman-teau, 163	The Macaronic, 165
	Notes, 168
7. Arrangement and Rearrangement within a Closed Field	171
The Playground, 171	The Medley, 173
175	Variation and Repetition, 175
Two Types of Allusion, 178	Travesties, 185
Made Systems, 186	Ready-Made Systems, 186
	Notes, 193
PART III: CONCLUSION
8. Change's Sensibility	199
The Relationships of Relationships, 199	Nonsense and Learning, 202
Paradox Regained, 206	Notes, 209
Bibliography, 211
Index, 223	