

STUDIES

- Ol'ga Chadaeva: The Superlunary World in Baroque Homiletics (in the Sermons of Ioanikii Galiatovsky, Lazar Baranovich and Symeon Polotsky) . . . . . 257–275
- Sergey Skorvid: Czech Prayers and Songs from the Northern Caucasus and Siberia Recorded in Cyrillic . . . . . 276–289
- Jakub Mikulecký: Kremikovtsi Steel Works as a Literary Topos. Bulgarian Post-War Literature in Conflict of Discourses . . . . . 290–305

MATERIALS AND DISCUSSIONS

- Renata Bizior: Communicative Strategies Modeling the Image of Socialists in Polish Religious Discourse (Turn of the 19th and 20th Centuries) . . . . . 306–317
- Jarosław Pacuła: The Words Belonging to the Category ‘Theft’ in the Polish Criminal Sociolect – Diachronic Analysis (on the basis of Lexis Used in the Short Story Fatum by Antoni Lange from 1925) . . . . . 318–335
- Anna Alekseevich: Bohemisms in the East Slavic Written Languages of the 14th–18th Centuries . . . . . 336–348
- Ludwig Selimski: On the Sinners “smashkom glavom hodeshti” in Abagar of Philip Stanislavov . . . . . 349–354
- Erzsébet Bárány – Adalbert Bárány: Philological Achievements of István Udvari . . . . . 355–363