

CONTENTS

Series Editors' Preface	page xi
Acknowledgements	xiii
List of Abbreviations	xv
Table of Cases	xvii
Introduction: Reasoning Indivisible Rights	1
PART I Setting the Stage	23
1 The ECHR and Socio-Economic Rights Protection	25
1.1 The Civil and Political ECHR and the ECtHR	26
1.2 No Watertight Division	39
1.3 Socio-Economic Protection through Substantive ECHR Rights	47
Conclusion	57
2 Making Sense of the ECtHR's Socio-Economic Protection	59
2.1 The Effectiveness Thesis	62
2.2 The Indivisibility Thesis	69
2.3 An Incomplete Puzzle	77
Conclusion	86
3 The Stages of Fundamental Rights Adjudication	88
3.1 The Structure of Fundamental Rights	89
3.2 Determining the Scope of a Right	95
3.3 Reviewing the Limitation of a Right	104
Conclusion	118

PART II	Core Rights Protection	119
4	Core Rights as Limits to Limitations	121
4.1	A Traditional Understanding of Core Rights Protection	123
4.2	The Wesensgehaltsgarantie : Protecting the Essence of Rights	126
4.3	Absolute and Relative Core Rights Protection	130
	Conclusion	140
5	Minimum Cores and the Scope of Fundamental Rights	142
5.1	The ICESCR and Minimum Core Obligations	143
5.2	Core Rights and Reasonableness: The South African Debate	150
5.3	The Right to a Subsistence Minimum in Germany	170
	Conclusion	176
6	Core Socio-Economic Content	177
6.1	Determining Core Socio-Economic Rights	178
6.2	Minimum Core Content	184
6.3	Minimum Protection for All	192
	Conclusion	196
PART III	Core Socio-Economic Rights and the ECtHR	197
7	A Core Rights Perspective for the ECtHR	199
7.1	Core Rights Revisited	200
7.2	Minimum Core Socio-Economic Protection under the ECHR	213
7.3	Core Indicators and Proportionality Review	219
	Conclusion	231
8	Core Socio-Economic Rights in the Case Law of the ECtHR	233
8.1	Housing	234
8.2	Health and Health Care	251
8.3	Social Security	269
	Conclusion	290
	Conclusion: Fit and Future	291
	Bibliography	299
	Index	319