

Contents

List of illustrations	ix
List of contributors	x
Acknowledgement	xi
1 Introduction	1
HELEN LANSDOWNE
2 Capitalism making and its political consequences in transition: a political economy analysis of China's communist capitalism	10
XIAONONG CHENG
3 Communist oligarchy and the oligarchic transition in China	35
MING XIA
4 A tale of two party-states: comparing authoritarianism across the Taiwan Strait	58
SZU-CHIEN HSU
5 Government counterframing and the revolutionary no-show in 1989	80
YANG SU AND TING JIANG
6 The current debate on constitutionalism and the liberal force within the Chinese Communist Party	93
CHONGYI FENG
7 Engaging the government's critics on weibo : China's "authoritarian resilience" in the age of the Internet	120
YIYI LU
8 A rising China in global governance: transition from a rule taker to a rule breaker and rule maker?	144
HONGYING WANG

viii Contents

9	Constructing a racialized identity in post-Mao China YINGHONG CHENG	162
10	Conclusion: "repressive capitalism" as the institutional crystallization of China's transition GUOGUANG WU	188
	Index	211