

Contents

INTRODUCTION: A Gathering Storm or a New Chapter? ix

PART ONE. RHETORICAL HISTORIES, CONTESTED NATIONALITIES, AND EMERGING TRANSCULTURES

Preface to Part One, by Leonard C. Hawes 3

The Little Red Book Lives On: Mao's Rhetorical Legacies in Contemporary Chinese Imaginings, by Xing Lu 11

Chen Guangcheng and the Rhetorical Politics of Dissent: Imagining
Human Rights in U.S.–Sino Relations, by Michelle Murray Yang 47

Alternative Modernities, Postcolonial Colonialism, and Contested Imaginings in and of Tibet, by Stephen J. Hartnett 91

Imagining China in Twelve Vignettes, photographs by Jeremy Make, captions by Stephen J. Hartnett 139

PART TWO. IMAGINING COMMUNITIES IN THE AGE OF RISK

Preface to Part Two, by Mohan J. Dutta 167

China's Fraught Food System: Imagining Ecological Civilization in the Face of Paradoxical Modernity, by Donovan Conley 175

Her Milk Is Inferior: Breastfeeding, Risk, and Imagining Maternal Identities in Chinese Cyberspace, by Zhuo Ban 205

Imagining Health Risks: Fear, Fate, Death, and Family in Chinese and American HIV/AIDS Online Discussion Forums, by Huiling Ding and Jingwen Zhang 235

Imagining the People's Risk: Projecting National Strength in China's English-Language News about Avian Influenza, by Lisa B. Keränen, Kirsten N. Lindholm, and Jared Woolly 271

PART THREE. REPRESENTATIONS, IMAGINATIONS, AND THE POLITICS OF CULTURE

Preface to Part Three, by Kent A. Ono 303

Imagining Dissent: Contesting the Facade of Harmony through Art and the Internet in China, by Patrick Shaou-Whea Dodge 311

Imagining China through the Culture Industries: The 798 Art Zone and New Chinas, by Elizabeth Brunner 339

A Beijing Wolf in Hong Kong: Lufsig and Imagining Communities of Political Resistance to Chinese Unification, by David R. Gruber . . . 371

CONCLUSION: Imagining China and the Rhetorical Work of Interpretation 395

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS 407

ABOUT THE AUTHORS 413

INDEX 419