

CONTENTS

Notes on Style and Presentation	xiii
Abbreviations	xv
General Introduction: The Significance of the Medieval Commentary-Tradition	i
I An Anthology of Literary Prefaces: Introductions to the Authors	12
II A Critical Colloquy: Conrad of Hirsau	37
III Scriptural Allegory and Authority: Hugh of Saint-Victor, Peter Abelard, and Peter Lombard	65
IV Poetic Fiction and Truth: William of Conches, 'Bernard Silvester', Arnulf of Orléans, and Ralph of Longchamps	113
V The Dionysian Imagination: Thomas Gallus and Robert Grosseteste	165
VI Scriptural Science and Signification: From Alexander's Sum of Theology to Nicholas of Lyre	197
VII Placing the Poetics : Hermann the German; An Anonymous Question on the Nature of Poetry	277
VIII Updated Approaches to the Classics: William of Aragon, Nicholas Trevet, Giovanni del Virgilio, and Pierre Bersuire	314
IX The Transformation of Critical Tradition: Dante, Petrarch, and Boccaccio	373
X Assessing the New Author: Commentary on Dante	439
Select Bibliography	520
Index	531