

Contents

Acknowledgments	ix
1. Introduction	3
2. Historical Antecedents	26
3. Building a Two-Trophic-Level Food Web	52
4. Adding a Third (and a Fourth and a Fifth . . .) Trophic Level	120
5. Omnivory in a Food Web	160
6. Mutualists, Symbionts, and Facilitators in a Food Web	193
7. Pathogens in a Food Web	241
8. Temporal Variability	277
9. Spatial Variability on Local and Regional Scales	308
10. Ecologically Equivalent and Neutral Species Embedded in a Food Web	344
11. MacArthur's Recasting Revisited	364
12. Philosophical and Practical Implications	382
Literature Cited	405
Index	451