

Contents

Acknowledgments ix

PART I Collective Action in the Place of Residence

1. Do Communities Act? 3
2. Marxist Perspectives on Locality-based Action 15
3. Weberian Perspectives on Locality-based Action 27
4. Domestic Property as a "Bundle of Interests" 43
5. The Differentiation of Domestic Property Interest
Groups 62
6. Group Formation and Intergroup Conflict in the Urban
Neighborhood 80

PART II Collective Action in Cincinnati's West End

7. The Besieged Community: Building and Bulldozing, 1800–
1965 99

8. The Mobilized Community: Protest and Participation, 1965–1975 141
9. The Fractured Community: Property Interests and Property Interest Groups, 1975–1985 175
10. The Contested Community: Intergroup Conflict, 1980–1985 216

PART III Urban Theory and Practice

11. Toward a Theory of Locality-based Action 257
12. Domestic Property Analysis: Theoretical Implications 285
13. Neighborhood Politics and Planning 307

Appendix A Sources and Methods 325

Appendix B Names and Affiliations of Interviewees 330

Bibliography 333

Index 347