

Table of contents

Preface	VII
INTRODUCTION
Motion event descriptions in broader perspective Yo Matsumoto and Kazuhiro Kawachi	1
Part I. Path and Deixis in individual languages
CHAPTER 1
Distinct coding of Deixis and Path in Kathmandu Newar Ikuko Matsuse	25
CHAPTER 2
Patterns of deictic expressions in Hungarian motion event descriptions Kiyoko Eguchi	41
CHAPTER 3
Patterns of path encoding in German Birgitta Meex	63
CHAPTER 4
Syntactic and semantic structures of Thai motion expressions Kiyoko Takahashi	105
Part II. Crosslinguistic and theoretical studies
CHAPTER 5
A fine-grained analysis of manner saliency: Experimental evidence from Japanese and English Kimi Akita and Yo Matsumoto	143

CHAPTER 6

- Attraction of attention in perceived motion events weighed against typology and cognitive cost: An experimental study of French 181
Takahiro Morita

CHAPTER 7

- Should Talmy's motion typology be expanded to visual motion?
 An investigation into expressions of motion, agentive motion,
 and visual motion in Sidaama (Sidamo) 205
Kazuhiro Kawachi

CHAPTER 8

- Looking into visual motion expressions in Dutch, English, and French:
 How languages stick to well-trodden typological paths 235
Bert Cappelle

CHAPTER 9

- Neutral and specialized path coding: Toward a new typology of path-coding devices and languages 281
Yo Matsumoto

- Name index 317

- Subject index 319