

CONTENTS

LIST OF ILLUSTRATIONS	vii
NOTES ON CONTRIBUTORS	ix
1 Introduction	1
Helen Ringrow and Stephen Pihlaja
2 'Beautiful masterpieces': Metaphors of the female body in modest fashion blogs	15
Helen Ringrow
3 Wolfing down the Twilight series: Metaphors for reading in online reviews	35
Louise Nuttall and Chloe Harrison
4 The language of citizen science: Short strings and 'we' as a group marker	61
Glenn Hadikin
5 The pragma-stylistics of 'image macro' internet memes	81
Jane Lugea
6 The stylistics of emoji: An interactional approach	107
Dwi Noverini Djenar and Michael C. Ewing

TABLES

Frequency of conceptual metaphor nodes coded in 1-star and 4-star reviews of Twilight on Goodreads	44
'Made me' READING IS CONTROL constructions in the 4-star reviews	48

- 7 Rape victims and the law: Victim blaming and victimization in reports of rape in the British press 141
Alessia Tranchese
- 8 Changing media representation of Gina-Lisa Lohfink as the icon of the 'Nein heißt nein' (no means no) movement in Germany 165
Ulrike Tabbert
- 9 Child victims of human trafficking and modern slavery in British newspapers 191
Ilse A. Ras
- 10 Reader comments and right-wing discourse in traditional news media websites 215
Tayyiba Bruce
- 11 Straight-talking honest politics: Rhetorical style and ethos in the mediated politics of metamodernity 241
Sam Browse
- 12 The aura of facticity: The ideological power of hidden voices in news reports 267
Matt Davies
- 13 The style of online preachers 297
Stephen Pihlaja
- 14 Conclusion: Contemporary media stylistics – The old, the remediated and the new 317
Caroline Tagg
- INDEX 329