

Table of Contents

Preface	xxvii
Acknowledgement	xxix
List of Abbreviations and Short References	xxxii
Chapter 1
Introduction	1
I. Setting	1
A. Spatial Data	1
B. Public Sector Spatial Data	2
C. Value of Public Sector Spatial Data	3
D. The Role of the Public Sector in Making Spatial Data Available	4
E. The Legal Framework for the Availability of Public Sector Spatial Data	6
II. The Problematic Character of the EU Legal Framework for the Availability of Public Sector Spatial Data	7
III. Structure and Outline of the Following Chapters	8
A. Structure	8
B. Outline	8
Chapter 2
Scope and Definitions	11
I. Introduction	11
II. Scope from the Point of View of the Legislation	12
III. Scope from the Point of View of the Type of Data	16

Table of Contents

A.	Spatial Data	16
1.	Data	16
a.	Data or Information	16
b.	Information or Document	19
2.	Spatial	20
3.	Spatial Data	21
B.	Spatial Data under the INSPIRE Directive	21
C.	Environmental Data	27
1.	Environmental	27
2.	Environmental Information in the Access Directive	28
3.	Environmental Information in the Aarhus Convention	30
D.	Public Sector Data	32
1.	Public Sector Information – Government Information – Public Information – Public Domain Information	32
2.	Public Sector Documents under the PSI Directive	33
IV.	Scope from the Point of View of the Organizations Holding the Data	34
A.	Public Sector and Related Terms	35
1.	Public Sector	35
2.	State and Government	36
3.	Administration	39
4.	Public Service	39
B.	Public Authorities under the Access Directive and the INSPIRE Directive	40
1.	The Definition of Public Authority in the Access Directive	40
2.	The Definition of Public Authority in the INSPIRE Directive	42
3.	The Definition of Public Authority in the Aarhus Convention	44
C.	Public Sector Bodies under the PSI Directive	45
1.	The Definition of the PSI Directive	45
2.	Contracting Authorities under the Public Procurement Directives	47
a.	State, Regional, and Local Authorities	47
b.	Bodies Governed by Public Law	49
i.	Meeting Needs in the General Interest Not Having an Industrial or Commercial Character	50
ii.	The Close Dependency Test	55
c.	Associations Formed by One or Several Authorities or One or Several Bodies Governed by Public Law	57
d.	Relevance for the PSI Directive	57

D.	Common Denominator between Public Sector Bodies and Public Authorities	58
V.	Common Denominator Between Spatial Data, Public Sector Data, and Environmental Data	59
VI.	Scope from the Point of View of the Purpose of Use	61
	A. Access	62
	B. Re-use	64
	C. Sharing	66
	D. Interim Summary	67
VII.	A First Indication of the Problematic Character of the EU Legal Framework for the Availability of Public Sector Spatial Data	67

Chapter 3

Existing Legal Framework for the Availability of Public Sector Spatial Data

I.	Introduction	69
II.	Access	70
	A. Introduction	70
	B. The Access Directive	70
	1. History: Directive 90/313/EEC	71
	a. Access upon Request	71
	b. Dissemination by Public Authorities of their Own Motion	74
	c. Follow-Up	74
	2. The Access Directive	75
	a. Introduction	75
	b. Objectives	75
	c. Definitions	77
	d. Access to Environmental Information upon Request	79
	i. General Principle	79
	ii. Time Limits	79
	iii. Requests Formulated in Too General a Manner	81
	iv. Form or Format of the Information	82
	v. Facilitating Measures	84
	vi. Exceptions to the Right of Access	85
	vii. Charges	91
	e. Access to Justice	93
	f. Dissemination of Environmental Information	95
	g. Quality of Environmental Information: Article 8 of the Access Directive	97
	3. Review of the Access Directive	98
C.	INSPIRE Directive	99
	1. Introduction	99
	2. The INSPIRE Directive and the Access Directive	100

Table of Contents

3.	Access to Network Services	100
a.	Establishment of Network Services	101
b.	Limitation of Access to Network Services	103
c.	Charges for Network Services	107
III.	Re-use	111
A.	History	111
1.	Guidelines for Improving the Synergy between the Public and Private Sectors in the Information Market	111
2.	The Publaw Reports	114
3.	The Stockholm Conference and the 1997 Bonn Ministerial Conference	116
4.	The Green Paper on Public Sector Information	117
5.	The eEurope 2002 Communication	119
B.	The PSI Directive	121
1.	Objective	122
2.	Title	123
3.	Subject Matter and Scope	125
a.	Introduction	125
b.	Re-use of Existing Documents	125
c.	Re-use by any Natural or Legal Person	127
d.	Practical Means of Facilitating Re-use	127
e.	Limitations on the Field of Application	128
i.	Documents the Supply of Which Is an Activity Falling outside of the Public Task	129
ii.	Documents for Which Third Parties hold Intellectual Property Rights	129
iii.	Documents Excluded from Access	131
iv.	Documents Held by Public Service Broadcasters	132
v.	Documents Held by Educational, Research, and Cultural Establishments	133
f.	Documents Containing Personal Data	134
4.	Definitions	136
a.	Public Sector Body	136
b.	Document	136
c.	Re-use	137
d.	Held by	139
e.	Public Task	139
5.	General Principle	140
6.	Requirements for the Processing of Requests for Re-use	143
a.	Time Limits	143
b.	Communication of the Grounds for Refusal and the Means of Redress	145
7.	Conditions for Re-use	146
a.	Available Formats	146
b.	Charges	148

c. Transparency	150
d. Licenses	151
e. Practical Arrangements	152
8. Non-discrimination	154
9. Prohibition of Exclusive Arrangements	155
C. The Review of the PSI Directive	156
IV. Sharing	158
A. History	159
B. Preparatory Phase	160
C. The INSPIRE Directive	162
1. Objective and General Provisions	162
2. Network Services	164
3. Data Sharing	164
a. General Principle	164
b. Restrictions at the Point of Use	165
c. Licensing and Charging	166
d. Authorities outside the Borders of the Member States	168
e. Limitations on Sharing	169
f. References to Re-use?	170
V. Summary	170
A. Access	171
B. Re-use	172
C. Sharing	173
D. Differences between the Rules on Access, Re-use, and Sharing	173
1. Obligatory Character	174
2. Limitations on the Availability of Data	174
3. Charges	175
4. Time Limits	177
E. Towards the Next Chapter	177

Chapter 4

The Problematic Character of the EU Legal Framework for the Availability of Public Sector Spatial Data

I. The Distinction between Access, Re-use, and Sharing	179
II. Importance of the Difference between Access, Re-use, and Sharing	179
III. Example: Charging for Public Sector Spatial Data	181
A. Introduction	181
B. Existing Rules on Charges for Access, Re-use, and Sharing in the Access Directive, the PSI Directive, and the INSPIRE Directive	181
C. Basis of the Debate on Charging: Cost Recovery v. Open Access	183

Table of Contents

1. Background of the Debate	183
2. Description of the Open Access and Cost Recovery Models	184
3. Demarcation between Open Access and Cost Recovery	185
D. Arguments for Open Access and Cost Recovery	186
1. Introduction	186
2. 'Democratic Arguments': Open Access Increases Democracy and Participation of the Citizen	189
3. The 'Why Pay Twice' Arguments	192
a. 'The Investments Have Been Made for the Public Task'	192
b. 'The Taxpayer Has Already Paid'	193
c. 'Charges Between Public Bodies Merely Shift the Budget'	197
4. 'The Macro-Economic Arguments': Open Access Is an Incentive for Economic Activity and Economic Growth	198
5. 'The Micro-Economic Argument': Better Performance of the Public Bodies	201
a. Quality of the Data	201
b. Quality and Efficiency of the Service	203
c. Liability	205
d. Transaction Costs of Charging for Public Sector Spatial Data	206
6. 'The Political Argument': Cost Recovery Improves the Negotiation Position of the Public Body	208
7. Evaluation of the Arguments	209
IV. Problematic Character of the Distinction between Access, Re-use, and Sharing	209

Chapter 5

Obligations to Make Public Sector Spatial Data Available in International and European Legislation and Policy Documents	213
I. Introduction	213
II. The Obligation of Making Public Sector Spatial Data Available for Access	214
A. Introduction	214
B. The Obligation of Making Public Sector Data Available for Access as a Part of Freedom of Information	215
1. United Nations	215
a. Universal Declaration on Human Rights	215
b. The International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights	216
2. Council of Europe	218

a.	The European Convention on the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms	218
b.	Documents of the Council of Ministers and the Parliamentary Assembly	219
c.	The Case Law of the European Court of Human Rights	221
3.	Interim Summary	225
C.	International and European Documents	226
1.	Access: From Passive to Active?	226
2.	United Nations	227
a.	United Nations Special Rapporteur on Freedom of Opinion and Expression	227
b.	United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO)	228
3.	Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development	231
a.	Report on Digital Broadband Content: Public Sector Information and Content	232
b.	Recommendation for Enhanced Access and More Effective Use of Public Sector Information	233
4.	Council of Europe	234
a.	Recommendation 854 (1979) of the Parliamentary Assembly on Access by the Public to Government Records and Freedom of Information	234
b.	Recommendation No. R(81)19 of the Committee of Ministers on the Access to Information Held by Public Authorities	235
c.	Recommendation Rec(2002)2 of the Committee of Ministers to Member States on Access to Official Documents	236
d.	Convention on Access to Official Documents	237
5.	European Union	240
a.	Access to Public Sector Data Held by the European Union Institutions and Bodies	240
i.	Article 15 of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union (Former Article 255 of the EC Treaty)	240
ii.	Article 42 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the EU	242
iii.	Regulation 1049/2001 Regarding Public Access to European Parliament, Council, and Commission Documents	242
iv.	Towards a Review of Regulation 1049/2001: the Green Paper on Public Access to Documents Held by Institutions of the European Community	246

Table of Contents

b.	Access to Public Sector Data Held by the Member States	248
i.	Publaw Reports	249
ii.	Green Paper on Public Sector Information	249
D.	The Obligation of Making Environmental Data Available for Access in European and International Documents	250
1.	United Nations	250
a.	Rio Declaration on Environment and Development	250
b.	Guidelines for Access to Environmental Information	251
c.	The Aarhus Convention	253
i.	Background	253
ii.	Article 3 of the Aarhus Convention: General Provisions	255
iii.	Article 4 of the Aarhus Convention: Access to Information upon Request	256
iv.	Article 5 of the Aarhus Convention: Dissemination of Environmental Information	258
2.	Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development: Recommendation of the Council on Environmental Information	261
3.	Council of Europe: The Lugano Convention	262
4.	European Union	263
a.	Access to Documents Held by the Community Institutions and Bodies: Regulation 1367/2006	263
b.	Access to Documents Held by Member States	266
i.	Directive 90/313/EEC	266
ii.	Access Directive	267
iii.	Access to Documents Held by Member States and the European Union: Shared Environmental Information System (SEIS)	268
E.	The Obligation of Making Spatial Data Available for Access in European and International Documents	268
1.	United Nations	268
a.	United Nations Spatial Data Infrastructure	268
b.	Global Earth Observation System of Systems	269
2.	European Union	270
a.	The INSPIRE Directive	270
b.	Global Monitoring for Environment and Security (Kopernikus)	271
F.	Interim Summary	272
III.	The Obligation of Making Public Sector Spatial Data Available for Re-use	274
A.	Introduction	274
B.	Does Freedom of Information Include a Right to Re-use the Information?	275

C.	International and European Documents	275
1.	United Nations	276
a.	UNESCO Policy Guidelines	276
b.	United Nations Spatial Data Infrastructure	276
c.	Global Earth Observation System of Systems	277
2.	Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development	277
3.	Council of Europe	279
4.	European Union	280
a.	Synergy Guidelines	280
b.	The PUBLAW Reports	280
c.	Green Paper on Public Sector Information	282
d.	eEurope 2002 Communication	283
e.	The PSI Directive	283
f.	The Commission Decision on the Re-use of Commission Information	285
g.	Global Monitoring for Environment and Security (Kopernikus)	286
D.	Interim Summary	287
IV.	The Obligation of Making Public Sector Spatial Data Available for Sharing	289
A.	Introduction	289
B.	International and European Documents	290
1.	United Nations	290
a.	Rio Declaration and Agenda 21	290
b.	Framework Convention on Climate Change	291
c.	United Nations Spatial Data Infrastructure	291
d.	Global Earth Observation System of Systems	293
2.	European Union	295
a.	INSPIRE	295
b.	Shared Environmental Information System (SEIS)	296
c.	Global Monitoring for Environment and Security	297
C.	Interim Summary	299
V.	Conclusion and Outlook towards the Next Chapter: What Is the Scope of the Obligations of the Public Bodies to Make Public Sector Spatial Data Available?	300
 Chapter 6
Defining the Distinctions between Access, Re-use, and Sharing		303
I.	Introduction	303
II.	Type of User to Whom Public Sector Spatial Data Is Made Available	304
A.	Users Requesting Public Sector Spatial Data for Access	305
B.	Users Requesting Public Sector Spatial Data for Re-use	305
C.	Users Requesting Public Sector Spatial Data for Sharing	306

Table of Contents

III.	Type of Public Sector Spatial Data That Is Made Available	307
A.	Typologies of Public Sector Data	308
B.	Types of Public Sector Data Based on the Content	313
1.	Spatial Data	313
2.	Environmental Data	315
C.	Types of Public Sector Spatial Data Based on the Level of Processing	316
D.	Types of Public Sector Spatial Data Based on Format and Volume	318
E.	Interim Summary	320
IV.	The Purpose for Which Public Sector Spatial Data Should Be Made Available	321
A.	Democratic Objectives	322
1.	Transparency	322
2.	Public Participation	322
3.	Legitimacy and Accountability	324
4.	Fulfilling One's Rights and Obligations	326
B.	Socio-Economic Objectives	327
1.	Participation in Society: Societal Growth	327
2.	Development of Communities	330
3.	Economic Growth	331
4.	Public Sector Spatial Data as a Public Good	332
a.	What Is a Public Good?	332
b.	Is Information a Public Good?	335
c.	Is Public Sector Spatial Data a Public Good?	337
C.	Better Decision Making	338
D.	Interim Summary	339
V.	The Problematic Character of the Distinctions Between Access, Re-use, and Sharing	340
A.	Access and Re-use	341
B.	Re-use and Sharing	347

Chapter 7

The Public Task of Providing Spatial Information Services in International and European Legislation and Policy Documents		351
I.	Introduction	351
II.	The Scope of the Public Task of Providing Information Services from a Positive Point of View	353
A.	Introduction	353
B.	The Public Task of Providing Spatial Information Services as Part of Freedom of Information?	353
1.	United Nations	354
a.	Universal Declaration on Human Rights	354
b.	The International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights	354

2.	Council of Europe	355
a.	The European Convention on the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms	355
b.	Documents of the Committee of Ministers and the Parliamentary Assembly	355
c.	The Case Law of the European Court of Human Rights	356
3.	Interim Summary	356
C.	The Public Task of Providing Public Sector Information Services in International and European Documents	357
1.	Introduction	357
2.	United Nations	357
a.	UN Special Rapporteur on Freedom of Opinion and Expression	357
b.	United Nations Economic, Social and Cultural Organization (UNESCO)	358
3.	Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development	359
4.	Council of Europe	360
a.	Recommendation No. R(81)19 of the Committee of Ministers on the Access to Information Held by Public Authorities	360
b.	Recommendation Rec(2002)2 of the Committee of Ministers to Member States on Access to Official Documents	361
c.	Convention on Access to Official Documents	361
5.	European Union	362
a.	The Provision of Information Services by the European Union Institutions and Bodies	362
i.	Regulation 1049/2001 Regarding Public Access to European Parliament, Council, and Commission Documents	362
ii.	Green Paper on Public Access to Documents Held by Institutions of the European Community	362
b.	Documents Held by the Member States	363
i.	Publaw Reports	363
ii.	Green Paper on Public Sector Information	364
D.	The Public Task of Providing Environmental Information Services in European and International Documents	365
1.	United Nations	365
a.	Rio Declaration on Environment and Development and Agenda 21	365
b.	Guidelines for Access to Environmental Information	366
c.	The Aarhus Convention	367
2.	OECD: Recommendation of the Council on Environmental Information	369

Table of Contents

3.	European Union	370
a.	Access to Documents Held by the European Union Institutions and Bodies: Regulation 1367/2006	370
b.	Access to Documents Held by Member States	371
i.	Directive 90/313/EEC	371
ii.	Access Directive	371
c.	Access to Documents Held by the Member States and the Institutions and Bodies of the European Union: Shared Environmental Information System (SEIS)	372
E.	The Public Task of Providing Spatial Information Services in European and International Documents	373
1.	United Nations: Global Earth Observation System of Systems	373
2.	European Union	374
a.	The INSPIRE Directive	374
b.	Global Monitoring for Environment and Security (Kopernikus)	375
F.	Interim Summary	375
III.	The Scope of the Public Task of Providing Information Services from a Negative Point of View	377
A.	Introduction	377
B.	The Limits on the Public Task in European and International Documents	377
1.	Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development	377
2.	European Union	379
a.	Guidelines for Improving the Synergy between the Public and the Private Sectors in the Information Market	379
b.	Publaw Reports	380
c.	Green Paper on Public Sector Information	381
d.	The eEurope 2002 Communication	382
e.	PSI Directive	382
f.	Commission Decision on the Re-use of Commission Information	383
g.	Review of the PSI Directive	383
C.	Interim Summary	385
IV.	Towards the Next Chapter: What Is the Scope of the Public Task of Providing Information Services?	385
Chapter 8
The Possibility of Defining the Public Task
I.	Introduction	387
II.	The Question of the Scope of the Public Task	388
A.	Introduction	388

B.	Recognition of the Problem	388
C.	Impact of the Lack of Definition of the Public Task	393
D.	The What-Question and the How-Question	395
III.	Attempts at Criteria to Determine the Public Task	396
A.	Introduction	396
B.	The Positive Approach: What the Public Bodies Should Do	397
1.	Legal Basis	397
2.	Link with the Core Responsibility of the Public Body	401
3.	Market Failure	401
4.	Public Interest	405
a.	General	405
b.	Concretization of Public Interest: Accessibility	407
i.	Aspects of Accessibility	408
ii.	Measures to Ensure Accessibility	410
iii.	The Dilemma in Ensuring Accessibility	411
iv.	Link with the Discussion on Raw Data and Added Value	411
v.	Dilemma of the Public Task	413
c.	Concretization of Public Interest: Types or Target Groups of Information Services	414
d.	Concretization of Public Interest: Universal Service	416
i.	The Concept and Characteristics of Universal Service	416
ii.	Approaches to the Universal Service Concept	420
iii.	The Usefulness of the Concept for Spatial Information Services	421
5.	Interim Summary	423
C.	The Negative Approach: What the Public Bodies Should Not Do	424
D.	Public Task v. Market: An Absolute Demarcation Line?	427
1.	Not Exhaustive	427
2.	Not Mutually Exclusive	429
a.	Selling Information Products as Part of the Public Task	429
i.	General	429
ii.	The Example of the Ordnance Survey	430
b.	Market Services in the Public Interest	431
E.	The Public Task Debate and Competition Law	431
IV.	Competition Law	433
A.	Public Bodies as Undertakings	434
1.	Definition	434
2.	The State or Public Bodies as Undertakings	436
3.	Applicability to Spatial Information Services	438
B.	Distortions of Competition by Public Bodies Providing Spatial Information Services as Undertakings	441

Table of Contents

1. Article 101 Treaty on the Functioning of the EU: Agreements between Undertakings	442
a. General	442
b. Applicability to Spatial Information Services	443
2. Article 102 Treaty on the Functioning of the EU: Abuse of a Dominant Position	444
a. General	444
i. Dominant Position	445
ii. Abuse of Dominant Position	446
iii. Examples of Abusive Acts with Regard to Pricing	447
iv. Example of Abusive Acts: Refusal to Supply	449
b. Applicability to Spatial Information Services	451
C. Distortions of Competition by the State as a Sovereign Power	457
1. Article 107 Treaty on the Functioning of the EU: State Aid	457
a. General	457
i. Principle: Prohibition of State Aid	457
ii. Elements of the State Aid Concept	458
iii. Compatible State Aid	460
b. Applicability to Spatial Information Services	461
c. Transparency and Separation of Activities	462
i. Transparency Directive	462
ii. Treaty on the Functioning of the EU	463
iii. Applicability to Spatial Information Services	464
2. Article 106(1) of the Treaty on the Functioning of the EU: Measures Regarding Public Undertakings and Undertakings with Special or Exclusive Rights	466
a. Introduction	466
b. Public Undertakings and Undertakings with Special or Exclusive Rights	467
c. Measures Contrary to the Treaty on the Functioning of the EU	470
d. Enforcement	472
e. Applicability to Spatial Information Services	472
i. The Practice in the Member States	472
ii. PSI Directive	473
D. Special Case: Services of General (Economic) Interest	475
1. Article 106(2) Treaty on the Functioning of the EU	476
a. Introduction	476
b. Definitions	477
i. Revenue Producing Monopoly	477
ii. Service of General Economic Interest	477
c. Conditions of Application	480
i. Entrustment	480

ii.	Proportionality	481
iii.	Effect on the Development of Trade	485
d.	Enforcement	486
e.	Interim Summary	486
2.	Legislative Activities	486
a.	Article 16 of the EC-Treaty: From Derogation to Obligation	487
b.	The European Commission: From Services of General Economic Interest to Services of General Interest	489
i.	Importance of Services of General Interest	489
ii.	Concept of Services of General Interest	490
iii.	No Clear Definition	491
iv.	Some Elements of a Service of General Economic Interest	492
c.	Services of General Economic Interest and State Aid	493
3.	Applicability to Spatial Information Services	496
a.	Spatial Information Services of General Economic Interest	496
b.	The Public Task and Services of General Economic Interest	497
E.	Interim Summary: Competition Law and Spatial Information Services	498
F.	Confrontation of Competition Law with the Division in the EU Legal Framework for the Availability of Public Sector Spatial Data	499
V.	The Definition of Public Task Remains Contingent	501
A.	The Definition of Public Task Continues to Evolve	501
B.	The Definition of Public Task Remains Political	505
C.	The Scope of the Public Task Depends on Who Defines It	507
1.	Democratic Process	507
2.	Stakeholders Involvement	508
3.	Regulatory or Advisory Body	509
4.	Level of Decision Making	510
VI.	Interim Summary	512
Chapter 9
Conclusion		515
I.	Hypothesis: The Problematic Character of the EU Legal Framework	515
II.	Overview of the Results	516
A.	Access, Re-use and Sharing in the Access Directive, the PSI Directive and the INSPIRE Directive	516
B.	The Need for a Demarcation between Access, Re-use, and Sharing	516

Table of Contents

1.	The Content of Access, Re-use, and Sharing	517
a.	Access	517
b.	Re-use	518
c.	Sharing	519
d.	Comparison	520
2.	The Importance of the Demarcation	521
C.	The Problematic Character of the Distinction Between Access, Re-use, and Sharing	522
D.	Public Bodies as Providers of Public Sector Spatial Data	522
1.	Obligations to Make Public Sector Spatial Data Available in International and European Legislation and Policy Documents	523
2.	Defining the Distinction Between Access, Re-use, and Sharing	524
a.	Indicators for the Type of Use	524
b.	The Purpose of the Use	525
3.	Confirmation of the Problematic Character of the Distinction Between Access, Re-use, and Sharing in the Access Directive, the PSI Directive, and the INSPIRE Directive	526
E.	Public Bodies as Providers of Spatial Information Services	528
1.	The Public Task to Provide Spatial Information Services in International and European Legislation and Policy Documents	528
2.	The Possibility of Defining the Public Task	530
a.	Criteria for Defining the Scope of the Public Task to Provide Spatial Information Services	530
b.	Competition Law as a Source of Inspiration	532
c.	Confirmation of the Problematic Character of the Distinction between Re-use and Sharing	535
III.	Final Conclusions and Further Thoughts	535
A.	Confirmation of the Hypothesis	535
B.	Comments and Reflections	535
1.	Wide Definition of Re-use	536
a.	Risk for the Right of Access	536
b.	Revision of the Definition	537
2.	The Concept of the Public Task	538
a.	The Uncertain Character of the Public Task	539
b.	Reduction of the Uncertain Character of the Public Task	540
c.	The Public Task on the Level of the European Union	541
d.	Reduction of the Uncertainty of the Public Task at the Level of the European Union	542

3. Coherence with Other Legislation and Policies	542
a. Competition Law	542
b. Other Information Policies and Legislation	543

Table of Legislation and Policy Documents	545
--	------------

Table of Cases	573
-----------------------	------------

List of References	581
---------------------------	------------

Index	613
--------------	------------