

CD 1

- | | | |
|----|--|------|
| 1 | The Four Just Men by Edgar Wallace – Prologue | 5:30 |
| 2 | Leon twisted his knuckles down and struck forward... | 3:24 |
| 3 | He mounted the horse I had brought... | 4:00 |
| 4 | Chapter 1: A Newspaper Story | 4:40 |
| 5 | 'Here is one of the letters,' and Sir Philip produced a sheet... | 3:41 |
| 6 | The Daily Megaphone is able to publish a full list... | 3:13 |
| 7 | Seattle (Kentucky), October, 1900. – Judge Anderson. | 3:08 |
| 8 | Chapter 2: The Faithful Commons | 5:03 |
| 9 | There were cheers for the Secretary for Foreign Affairs... | 5:35 |
| 10 | 'To the Members of the House of Commons,' he read... | 3:08 |
| 11 | The Premier, with a troubled face, paced the floor... | 3:22 |
| 12 | Chapter 3: One Thousand Pounds Reward | 4:34 |
| 13 | All day long little knots of people gathered... | 4:15 |
| 14 | 'Is it the Mafia?' asked the Comet noisily... | 4:45 |
| 15 | Sir Philip was a constant source of interest... | 4:48 |

CD 2

- | | | |
|----|---|------|
| 1 | Chapter 4: Preparations | 3:44 |
| 2 | It was a plain-fronted shop... | 4:10 |
| 3 | The physiognomist might have continued Seneca's picture... | 3:11 |
| 4 | After this the conversation became Greek to the Spaniard... | 3:41 |
| 5 | The object of their discussion finished his tenth cigarette... | 3:15 |
| 6 | A thin smoke was rising from the cup. | 2:30 |
| 7 | Chapter 5: The Outrage at the 'Megaphone' | 4:51 |
| 8 | Half an hour later the editor of the Megaphone sat discussing... | 4:50 |
| 9 | So Welby and the chief kept the matter a secret... | 4:01 |
| 10 | The cab speeding along Oxford Street turned into Edgware Road... | 5:14 |
| 11 | Manfred scanned the pages carefully, then threw them aside. | 4:26 |
| 12 | He spoke all the while in English... | 4:10 |
| 13 | Chapter 6: The Clues | 3:02 |
| 14 | From which may be gathered that, acting on the information... | 4:20 |
| 15 | His official residence he absolutely refused to occupy... | 5:11 |
| 16 | In the top room in the workshop at Carnaby Street... | 4:02 |
| 17 | 'I am going to survey the land,' said Manfred suddenly... | 3:31 |
| 18 | He threw up his hands as if to ward them off. | 4:22 |

CD 3

- | | | |
|----|--|------|
| 1 | Chapter 7: The Messenger of The Four | 3:57 |
| 2 | The Four Just Men were on the nerves of more people... | 5:04 |
| 3 | He placed the letter in a drawer of his desk... | 5:09 |
| 4 | The detective finished reading. | 4:13 |
| 5 | Ramon paced his room with quick, nervous steps. | 3:46 |
| 6 | He took a quick step to the door... | 3:01 |
| 7 | Chapter 8: The Pocket-Book | 4:22 |
| 8 | 'It is a poetical idea,' said the phlegmatic Premier... | 4:40 |
| 9 | They resumed their walk. | 4:55 |
| 10 | So, the night being comparatively young... | 4:28 |
| 11 | The contents of this page was understandable... | 3:28 |
| 12 | 'Now, Billy,' said the detective... | 2:24 |
| 13 | Chapter 9: The Cupidity of Marks | 4:41 |
| 14 | The detective rose with a sigh. | 4:15 |
| 15 | Then Poiccart spoke: 'The very stars in their courses are fighting...' | 4:10 |
| 16 | '"Can you oblige me with a match?" I asked.' | 2:19 |

CD 4

- | | | |
|----|---|------|
| 1 | Poiccart paused for a moment... | 4:31 |
| 2 | 'The explanation is simple,' said Gonsalez quietly... | 4:45 |
| 3 | He pushed open the swing doors... | 3:37 |
| 4 | He turned from the contemplation of the unpleasant possibilities... | 3:40 |
| 5 | Chapter 10: Three Who Died | 5:06 |
| 6 | And within an hour there was witnessed in London... | 4:45 |
| 7 | The Commissioner nodded. | 4:50 |
| 8 | 'From my vantage place,' wrote Smith in the Megaphone ... | 4:42 |
| 9 | Seven o'clock boomed forth... | 4:06 |
| 10 | That forty minutes was the longest... | 3:36 |
| 11 | Chapter 11: A Newspaper Cutting | 4:27 |
| 12 | What steps did you take when you discovered this? | 5:28 |
| 13 | You speak of a blow leaving no contusion. | 3:31 |
| 14 | After the tragedy did you make a systematic search... | 3:16 |
| 15 | Chapter 12: Conclusion | 4:56 |
| 16 | He stood for a moment at the entrance... | 5:13 |