

CONTENTS

Preface
Fritz R. Staehelin	7
Introduction
Laurent Goetschel	9
The Foreign and Security Policy Interests of Small States in Today's Europe
Laurent Goetschel
1 The significance of smallness	13
2 The importance of international society	19
3 Small states' strategies	23
4 The importance of identity	27
The Perception of Small States: Myth and Reality
Daniel Thürer
1 Myths and perceptions	33
2 Political realities and strategies	37
Is the Notion of Small State Still Relevant?
Franz von Däniken
1 Introductory remarks	43
2 When is a state small, when large?	44
3 Small states in an integrated and interdependent world	44
4 Switzerland - a small state?	46
5 Is small beautiful?	47

The European Commission: A Natural Ally of Small States in the EU Institutional Framework?

Charles-Michel Geurts

1	Introduction	49
2	The context of over-representation of small states in the institutions	51
3	The Commission's right of initiative	53
4	The Commission as an independent entity embodying the general interest	55
5	The balance achieved by the community method	58
6	The prospect of enlargement	61

Decision-Making in the Council of the European Union

Antti Kuosmanen

1	Introduction	65
2	The Council in the institutional set-up	66
3	Decision-making in the Council	68
4	The Council's interaction with other institutions and member states	70
5	The nature of the decision-making process in the Council	73
6	Concluding remarks: Pros and cons for the small countries	77

Small State as a Third State: Switzerland and Asia-Europe Interregionalism

Heiner Hänggi

1	Introduction	79
2	The concept of a small state	80
3	Switzerland and Asia-Europe interregionalism	86
4	Conclusion	95

Switzerland's Integration Policy

Anton Egger

1	Introduction	97
2	The basis for sector-by-sector bilateral negotiations	97
3	The areas subject to negotiations and advantages	101
4	Multilateral integration	103

The Danish Case: International Involvement as the Small State's Remedy for Great Power Dominance

Uffe Balslev

1	Introduction	107
2	The Danish „no“ to the Maastricht Treaty in 1992	108
3	Neutrality at a dead end	110
4	International involvement	114
5	Europe after the Cold War: New subregional dimensions	118
6	European security and defense identity: Danish skepticism	122

Security Policy of a Small Central-European Candidate for the Enlarged EU: Slovenia

Anton A. Bebler

1	Introduction	125
2	The origin of Slovenia's security policy: Geopolitical change in the region since 1989	126
3	The defense system and armed forces of Slovenia since 1990	128
4	Slovenia and NATO enlargement	132

Regional Cooperation and Security in the Baltic Sea Rim

Renatas Norkus

1	Introduction	139
2	The Baltic security agenda	139
3	Instruments of Baltic Sea cooperation	147
4	Assessing regional cooperation: Limited means to meet the ends	156

Neutrality and the EU: An Austrian View

Andreas Rendl

1	The concept of neutrality	161
2	Neutrality and integration	163
3	The contribution of neutral Austria to European security	165

The Finnish Neutrality – Its New Forms and Future

Teija Tiilikainen

1	Introduction	169
2	Neutrality as a solution of security policy	169
3	From neutrality to non-alignment	171
4	The forms of Finnish non-alignment	173
5	Finnish security policy in the 21 st century	175
6	Finnish neutrality: An obstacle for integration or a triviality?	178

Swedish Neutrality: Stumbling into the Unknown Past

Wilhelm Agrell

1	Introduction	181
2	Planning and preparations	184
3	The revision of the political history of neutrality	187
4	Neutrality and integration: The impact of legacy	191

The Position of Small States in the EU

Sasha Baillie

1	Introduction	193
2	The theory	193
3	Hypothetical explanations of small state influence	195
4	The historical context particular to Luxembourg	195
5	Institutionalist explanations	197
6	Actor-centered explanations	201
7	A merger of hypotheses	205

Implications of the Intergovernmental Conference and the Treaty of Amsterdam for Small EU Member States

Martin Zbinden

1	Introduction	207
2	The problem of small and large member states in the IGC	209
3	The initial positions of member states and the EU institutions	218
4	Characteristics of IGC negotiations	224
5	Results of the Amsterdam Treaty	231
6	Conclusion	235
7	Appendix	238

Implications of Enlargement

Tony Brown

1	Introduction	243
2	Small states and future enlargement of the Union	244
3	Coping with further enlargement	246
4	Irish attitudes	247
5	Amsterdam and the Agenda 2000	248
6	The European Commission	250
7	The composition of the future Commission	254
8	Beyond the institutions	258
9	Small states - Big implications	260
10	Security considerations	262
11	What Europe and whose?	264
12	Conclusion	266

Conclusions: Future Relevance and Priorities of Small States

Günther Baechler

1	Does small really mean small in Europe?	267
2	Main conclusions to be found in this volume	271
3	Is there a future for large states? Evaluation of the conclusions	281

Authors	285
---------	-----

Abbreviations	291
---------------	-----