

Contents

List of figures	xi
Acknowledgments	xiii
Introduction: what is performance?	1
The aims of this book	2
The display of skills	2
Patterned behavior	3
Keeping up the standard	4
Theatre and performance art	5
The plan of this book	6
1 The performance of culture: anthropological and ethnographic approaches	9
Performance and anthropology	10
Cultural performance	11
Kenneth Burke and the rhetoric of performance	12
Victor Turner and social drama	14
Richard Schechner and social drama	15
Liminal and liminoid	17
Performance and play	19
Subversive play	21
Performing anthropology	23
2 Performance in society: sociological and psychological approaches	32
Nikolas Evreinoff and social roles	33
Kenneth Burke and dramatism	34
Erving Goffman and role playing	35

Framing	36
Umberto Eco and ostentation	37
Performance and agency	38
Social performance—negative views	40
Bruce Wilshire and ethical responsibility	41
Social performance—positive views	42
Moreno and psychodrama	43
Behavior therapy	44
Eric Berne and Talcott Parsons	44
Social constructionism	45
Goffman and keying	47
Schechner and restored behavior	48
Binocular vision and the actual	50
Performance and psychoanalysis	52
Identification and psychosemiotics	52
Elin Diamond and psychoanalytic theory	53
Ann Pellegrini and racial identity	54
Pathologies of identification—hysteria	54
Pathologies of identification—homosexuality	55
Pathologies of identification—melancholia	56
Judith Butler and melancholia	57
Tomkins, Sedgwick and Muñoz	57
Performance psychology	58
3 The performance of language: linguistic approaches	62
Semiotics	62
The post-structuralist challenge	63
Chomsky's competence and performance	64
Dell Hymes and functional linguistics	64
Bakhtin and the utterance	65
Austin and speech act theory	67
Searle and speech act theory	68
Kristeva and speech act theory	69
Benveniste and speech act theory	70
Katz and speech act theory	70
Shoshana Felman and the literary speech act	71
Literature as act	73
Stanley Fish	73
Pratt and the tellable	74
Kristeva and the problem of the "author"	74

Intentions and effects in literary speech acts	75
Drama as a literary speech act	76
Speech acts within the drama	77
Speech act theory and semiotics: Keir Elam	77
Speech act theory and semiotics: Eli Rozik	78
Text and performance	79
Jacques Derrida and citation	80
Bourdieu and social authority	82
Judith Butler and performativity	82
Butler, Spivak and precarity	85
Performance and the social sciences: a look backward	86
4 Performance in its historical context	91
Performance's new orientation	91
Popular forms	91
The avant-garde tradition	92
Jean Alter and the performant function	94
Folk and popular performance	95
Fairs and circuses	97
Solo performances	98
American minstrelsy	99
Waudevilles and reviews	101
The cabaret	102
Russian experimental performance	102
Isadora Duncan	103
Pageants and spectacles	104
Estuarism	104
Dada and surrealism	105
The Bauhaus	107
The tradition of mime	108
St Denis and the tradition of dance	110
John Cage, Merce Cunningham, Anna Halprin	110
Happenings	112
Kostelanetz and the Theater of Mixed Means	114
5 Performance art	119
The beginnings of performance art	119
Conceptual art	120
Body art	120

- Chris Burden, Vito Acconci, Marina Abramović 122
- Performance art and theatre 123
- The Theatre of Mixed Means 124
- Early British performance art 124
- Jérôme Savary 125
- Outdoor and site-specific performance 126
- Robert Wilson 129
- The new circus 130
- The new vaudevillians 132
- Persona performance and walkabouts 133
- Autobiographical performance 135
- Laurie Anderson 136
- The turn to language 137
- Word and image 138
- Politics and performance 139
- Non-dance 141
- Live art 142
- Live art and the media 142
- Performance and new technology 143
- Back to the gallery 144
- 6 Performance and the postmodern 149
- Ihab Hassan 149
- Thomas Leabheart 150
- Greenberg, Fried, and modernism 151
- The heritage of Artaud 153
- Sally Banes and post-modern dance 155
- Reactions to Banes 156
- Charles Jencks and Linda Hutcheon 158
- Double-coding and parody 159
- Hal Foster and "neoconservative" postmodernism 160
- Postmodernism and poststructuralism 162
- Josette Féral: performance and theatricality 163
- Performance as experience 165
- The role of the audience 166
- Postmodern performance and politics 167
- Postmodernism and the postdramatic 169
- After postmodernism 170

7	Performance and identity	175
	Feminist performance	175
	Liberal and cultural feminism	176
	Materialist feminism	176
	Women's performance in the 1960s	177
	The pioneers of women's performance	178
	Mythic explorations	179
	Autobiographical performance	180
	Autobiographical performance and formalist theory	181
	Lesbian performance	182
	Persona performance	183
	Gay performance	184
	Camp performance	186
	Cross-dressing and drag	186
	The NEA Four	188
	Later works of the NEA Four	190
	Performance and ethnicity	191
	Blackface performance	192
	Other ethnic identity performance	193
	Performance in the 1990s, new voices, new bodies	195
	Characters from the streets	196
	Def poetry performance	198
	Body art in the 1990s	199
	Victim art	200
	Disabled performance	201
	The performing audience	203
8	Cultural performance	209
	Guerrilla and street performance	209
	Feminist guerrilla theatre and the Guerrilla Girls	210
	ASCO	212
	Social concerns in early feminist performance	212
	German and English perspectives	213
	The search for subjectivity	214
	The female performer, subjectivity, and the gaze	215
	Gendered and raced bodies in performance	216
	Visibility and representation	218
	Butler and citation	219

Masquerade and mimicry 220
Mimicry, cultural stereotypes, and the post-colonial 222
Spiderwoman: mimicry and counter-mimicry 223
Counter-mimicry and cultural representation 223
Coco Fusco 225
Gómez-Peña's border crossings 226
The Yes Men: corporate counter-mimicry 226
The problem of re-inscription 227
Strategic essentialism and the politics of representation 228
Latinx 229
Performance and the community 230
Political performance at the end of the century 232
Ecological performance 233
Intercultural performance in a global context 236

Conclusion: what is performance?

Performance and the blurring of boundaries 242
Drawing conclusions 244
Conquergood's 1991 survey of the field 245
Performance studies international 247
Overviews of the field 248
Coda: an apologia for theatre 250

Glossary 255
Bibliography 264
Name index 281
Subject index 288