

Contents

Preface 2005	xi
Preface	xix
Abbreviations	xxiii
1. A Life in Cinema	1
From Theatre to Cinema	1
The Silent Films	8
Europe, Hollywood, and Mexico	15
Projects and Problems	22
Triumph and Decline	27
The Particularities of Method	33
2. Monumental Heroics: The Silent Films	40
Toward Plotless Cinema	43
Strike	50
Potemkin	61
October	79
Old and New	96
A Note on Versions of Eisenstein's Silent Films	109
3. Seizing the Spectator: Film Theory in the Silent Era	111
Between Theory and Practice	112
Agitation as Excitation	115
Montage in Theatre and Film	120
Film Language and Intellectual Cinema	123

Film Form as Dialectics	127
The Eclectic Modernist	134
4. Practical Aesthetics: Pedagogy		139
Structure and Style: The Episode	141
Structure and Style: From Episode to Work	156
Assaulting the Eye	160
5. Cinema as Synthesis: Film Theory, 1930–1948		163
From Agitprop Formalism to Socialist Realism	164
Conceptions of Psychological Activity	168
Film Form: Organic Unity	177
Montage: The Musical Analogy Revisited	184
Pathos and Ecstasy	190
A Mature Poetics	195
6. History and Tragedy: The Late Films		199
Alexander Nevsky	210
Ivan the Terrible	223
7. The Making and Remaking of Sergei Eisenstein		254
Legend in Life	254
The Assimilation into Orthodoxy	257
The Exemplary Modernist	260
Eisenstein Our Contemporary	265
Chronology	275
Filmography	279
Further Reading	283
Bibliography	289
Photo Credits	310
Index	311	