

Contents

List of figures	ix
List of tables	xi
List of contributors	xiii
1 Introduction: the many steps and factors of a European renaissance	1
LUCA BARRA AND MASSIMO SCAGLIONI
PART 1
Researching European fiction	11
2 The grounds for a renaissance in European fiction: transnational writing, production and distribution approaches, and strategies	13
LUCA BARRA AND MASSIMO SCAGLIONI
3 Mapping European premium-scripted TV: trends, patterns, and data in an emerging EU market	33
DOM HOLDAWAY, CECILIA PENATI AND ANNA SFARDINI
4 Transnational circulation of European TV series: national models and industrial strategies for scripted pay imports/exports	56
PAOLO CARELLI AND DAMIANO GAROFALO

PART 2

United Kingdom

69

- 5 A 21st-century gold rush? Video on demand and the global competition for UK television

71

PHILIP DRAKE

- 6 “The biggest drama commission in British television history”: Netflix, The Crown, and the UK television ecosystem

86

ROBERTA PEARSON

PART 3

France

101

- 7 Video on demand platforms, editorial strategies, and logics of production: the case of Netflix France

103

CHRISTEL TAILLIBERT AND BRUNO CAILLER

- 8 The strategy of “quality TV”: branding, creating, and producing at Canal+

118

HÉLÈNE MONNET-CANTAGREL

- 9 What is a quality French series? Reflections on The Bureau

130

FRANÇOIS JOST

PART 4

Italy

143

- 10 Towards a new model for Italian TV fiction: Sky Italia originals and the struggle for difference

145

LUCA BARRA AND MASSIMO SCAGLIONI

- 11 The Holy See(ing): Splendors and miseries of The Young Pope

165

GIANCARLO LOMBARDI

PART 5
Germany	175
12 TV drama series production in Germany and the digital television landscape	177
LOTHAR MIKOS
13 Selling location, selling history: new German series and changing market logic	191
SUSANNE EICHNER
PART 6
Spain	211
14 The origins of premium television fiction in Spain: Canal+ and its evolution towards new ways of production and distribution as Movistar+	213
JUAN FRANCISCO GUTIÉRREZ LOZANO
15 Bambú Producciones and the transformation of Spanish television fiction production	227
CONCEPCIÓN CASCAJOSA VIRINO
PART 7
Central and Eastern Europe	241
16 HBO Europe's original programming in the era of streaming wars	243
PETR SZCZEPANIK
17 Quality by design: feature TV series from premium television in Poland	262
ARTUR MAJER
18 Familiar, much too familiar... HBO's Hungarian original productions and the questions of cultural proximity	275
BALÁZS VARGA
Index	295