

Contents

List of figures and tables	page x
Preface	xi
1 Understanding war in moral terms	1
1.1 Rwanda, 1994	2
1.2 Morality, self-interest, and national interest	3
1.3 War and peace, just war and just peace	6
1.4 Value relativism	11
1.5 Realism	14
1.6 Pacifism	22
1.7 Just war theory	28
1.8 Just war theory and international law	32
2 The just war tradition: a brief history	35
2.1 Vitoria and the Spanish war against Native Americans	35
2.2 The origins of the just war tradition: early developments	38
2.3 The origins of the just war tradition: Augustine	42
2.4 The medieval synthesis	45
2.5 The state system and the secularization of the tradition	51
2.6 The fall of jus ad bellum	58
2.7 The rise of jus in bello and the re-emergence of jus ad bellum	62
2.8 Conclusion	65
3 When is it just to go to war?	68
3.1 Jus ad bellum and the Gulf War	70
3.2 Just cause	73
3.3 Just cause and anticipatory defense	78
3.4 Legitimate authority and rightful intention	82
3.5 Proportionality	85
3.6 Last resort and reasonable chance of success	93

3.7	Does jus ad bellum depend on jus in bello ?	97
3.8	Jus ad bellum : overall justice	102
4	Sovereignty and human rights	109
4.1	The Kosovo War	110
4.2	The domestic analogy and state sovereignty	113
4.3	Humanitarian intervention and the human rights paradigm	121
4.4	Other ad bellum criteria	133
4.5	Proportionality revisited	136
4.6	Comparing created evil and resisted evil	143
4.7	Is a moral defense possible?	149
5	How should war be fought? Part one	154
5.1	The war in Afghanistan: the Bala Baluk episode	155
5.2	The war convention	159
5.3	The principle of discrimination: civilian immunity	165
5.4	Double effect	173
5.5	Civilians and combatants	181
5.6	Principle of discrimination: combatant liability	190
5.7	Symmetry through invincible ignorance	195
6	How should war be fought? Part two	200
6.1	Terrorism and torture	201
6.2	Conventionalism	202
6.3	Morality in extremis	207
6.4	Proportionality and due care	213
6.5	Weapons and war	222
6.6	Does jus in bello depend on jus ad bellum ?	226
6.7	The overall judgment of jus in bello	232
6.8	Terrorism	233
7	Civil wars	240
7.1	The Congo civil wars	245
7.2	Civil wars and jus ad bellum	246
7.3	Civil wars and jus in bello	258
7.4	Global terrorism	271
8	Justice at the end of war	276
8.1	World War I: the war to end war	277
8.2	Keeping war just: jus extendere bellum	280

8.3	Justice at the end of a war: jus post bellum	286
8.4	The general end of war	295
8.5	The morality of abolition	300
Bibliography		307
Index		321