

Contents

Introduction: Reclaiming Constituent Power	1
I. Constitutional Mutation, Politicization, and Constituent Power in the EU	1
II. On Method: Public Narratives, Models, and Rational Reconstruction	6
III. Outline of the Book	10
 PART I SETTING THE STAGE
1. Why Constituent Power? European Integration and the Problem of Usurpation	17
I. Citizens Sidelined: Treaty Making, Integration through Law, and Constitutional Mutation	18
II. European Integration and the Usurpation of Constituent Power	23
III. Preliminary Considerations on a Theory of Constituent Power in the EU	30
2. Public Narratives of Constituent Power in the European Union	41
I. Narratives, European Integration, and Constituent Power	42
II. Four Public Narratives of Constituent Power in the EU	46
III. From Public Narratives to Theory Construction	61
 PART II EXPLORING COMPETING MODELS
3. Regional-Cosmopolitan Constituent Power	69
I. A European Demos without a European State	70
II. A Regional-Cosmopolitan Model of Constituent Power	75
III. A Unitary and Independent Constituent Power for a Compound and Dependent Polity?	81
4. Demoi-cratic Constituent Power	87
I. Democracy among a Plurality of Peoples	88
II. A Demoi-cratic Model of Constituent Power	92
III. National Constituent Power for a Supranational Polity?	97
5. Dual Constituent Power	105
I. Federal and National Peoples in Federations of States	106
II. A Dual Model of Constituent Power	110
III. A Substantively Pre-Committed and Procedurally Undifferentiated Constituent Power?	115

6. Destituent Power	123
I. A Politics of Disruption as Trigger for Constitutional Change	124
II. Destituent Power and the Political Strategies of EU Protest Movements	129
III. The Problem of Authorization and the Lure of the Jurisgenerative Dimension	133
PART III CONSTRUCTING A NEW THEORY
7. Higher-Level Constituent Power: A New Conceptual Framework	141
I. The Masters of the Treaties, Kompetenz-Kompetenz , and Constituent Power in the EU	142
II. Higher-Level Constituent Power: The Normative Logic of the Ordinary Revision Procedure	147
III. A New Conceptual Framework: Three Levels of Constituent Power	152
8. Citizens All the Way Down: Rethinking the Dual Constituent Subject	159
I. The Practice of EU Constitutional Politics: Defining Features and Presuppositions	160
II. Principles of Supranational Constitution Making	165
III. A New Account of Pouvoir Constituant Mixte : Citizens All the Way Down	174
9. Extraordinary Partisanship: The Problem of Political Agency	179
I. Challenges of Political Agency for Constituent Power in the EU	180
II. Transnational Partisanship as a Vehicle for Constituent Power	184
III. A New Model of Extraordinary Partisanship	190
10. A Permanent Constitutional Assembly: An Institutional Proposal	197
I. Empowering and Regulating Constituent Power: The Transmission and Filter Functions of Sluice Systems	198
II. COSAC as an Inter-Parliamentary Constitutional Assembly?	203
III. A Permanent Constitutional Assembly as Core of a Sluice System for Constituent Power in the EU	208
Conclusion: Constituent Power and the Future of the European Union	215
Bibliography	223
Index	241