1.5.2 The Sappho Challenge – Bringing Stakeholders into the Frame	14
1.5.3 The Sustainability Challenge – Innovation for Sustainable Development	17
1.6 Emergent Properties of the New Innovation Environment	21
2. A Framework for Responsible Innovation	27
Richard Owen, Jack Stilgoe, Phil Macnaghten, Mike Gorman, Erik Fisher, and Dave Guston
2.1 Introduction	27
2.2 Context: the Imperative for Responsible Innovation	30
2.2.1 Re-evaluating the Social Contract for Science and Innovation	30
2.2.2 The Responsibility Gap	31
2.2.3 The Dilemma of Control	33
2.2.4 Products and Purposes: the Democratic Governance of Intent	34
2.3 Locating Responsible Innovation within Prospective Dimensions of Responsibility	35
2.4 Four Dimensions of Responsible Innovation	38
2.5 Responsible Innovation: from Principles to Practice	39
2.5.1 Some Experiments in Responsible Innovation	40
2.6 Toward the Future: Building Capacity for Responsible Innovation	44

3. A Vision of Responsible Research and Innovation	51
René von Schomberg
3.1 Introduction: Technical Inventions, Innovation, and Responsibility	52
3.2 Responsible Research and Innovation and the Quest for the Right Impacts of Research	54
3.3 Defining the Right Impacts and Outcomes of Research	56
3.4 From Normative Anchor Points Toward the Defining of “Grand Challenges” and the Direction of Innovation	58
3.5 Responsible Research and Innovation: Organizing Collective Responsibility	59
3.5.1 Some Examples of Irresponsible Innovation	60
3.6 A Framework for Responsible Research and Innovation	63
3.6.1 Use of Technology Assessment and Technology Foresight	65
3.6.2 Application of Precautionary Principle	67
3.6.3 Innovation Governance	67
3.7 Outlook	71
4. Value Sensitive Design and Responsible Innovation	75
Jeroen van den Hoven
4.1 Introduction	75
4.2 Innovation and Moral Overload	77
4.3 Values and Design	78
4.4 Responsible Innovation	80
5. Responsible Innovation – Opening Up Dialogue and Debate	85
Kathy Sykes and Phil Macnaghten
5.1 A Short History of Controversies about Science and Technology	85
5.2 The Evolution of Public Engagement	87
5.3 The Case of Genetically Modified Foods in the UK	90
5.4 Sciencewise and the Institutional Embedding of Public Engagement in the UK	92
5.5 Motivations for Public Dialogue	94
5.6 The Claims for Public Dialogue	97
5.7 How (and When) Can Debate and Dialogue Be Opened Up?	99
5.8 The Substance of Public Concerns and Their Implications for Governance	102
5.9 Concluding Remarks	104
6. “Daddy, Can I Have a Puddle Gator?”: Creativity, Anticipation, and Responsible Innovation	109
David H. Guston
6.1 Introduction	109
6.2 Understanding Anticipation	111

6.3	The Politics of Novelty	112
6.4	The Challenge of Speculative Ethics	114
6.5	Conclusion	116
What Is “Responsible” about Responsible Innovation? Understanding the Ethical Issues		119
Alexei Grinbaum and Christopher Groves
7.1	Introduction	119
7.2	The Changing Meaning of Responsibility	120
7.2.1	From the Divine Corporation to the Sovereign Individual	120

10.2.7	Perspective on Democracy	191
10.3	Some Directions for Further Reflection	191
10.4	Conclusion	194
11.	Responsible Research and Innovation in Information and Communication Technology: Identifying and Engaging with the Ethical Implications of ICTs	199
	Bernd Carsten Stahl, Grace Eden, and Marina Jirotko
11.1	Introduction	199
11.2	Conceptualizing Responsibility and Responsible Research and Innovation in ICT	200
11.2.1	Responsibility as a Social Ascription	200
11.2.2	Responsible Research and Innovation as Meta-Responsibility	201
11.2.3	Responsible Research and Innovation: the Four “P”s	202
11.3	Building a Framework for RRI in ICT	203
11.3.1	Product: ICTs and Their Ethical Implications	203
11.3.2	People: Landscape of ICT Ethics	208
11.3.3	Process: Governance of RRI in ICT	212
11.4	Critical Reflections	214
11.4.1	The Meta-Responsibilities of RRI	214
11.4.2	Further Research	215
12.	Deliberation and Responsible Innovation: a Geoengineering Case Study	219
	Karen Parkhill, Nick Pidgeon, Adam Corner, and Naomi Vaughan
12.1	Introduction	219
12.2	Public Perceptions of Geoengineering	222
12.3	Exploring Public Perceptions of Geoengineering: an Empirical Study	223
12.3.1	Context	223
12.3.2	Method: Deliberating SPICE	224
12.3.3	Analysis	225

12.4	Public Perceptions of Geoengineering through the Lens of Responsible Innovation	226
12.4.1	Intentions	226
12.4.2	Responsibility	229
12.4.3	Impacts	231
12.4.4	The Role of the Public	232
12.5	Conclusion: Geoengineering – Responsible Innovation?	234
13.	Visions, Hype, and Expectations: a Place for Responsibility	241
	Elena Simakova and Christopher Coenen
13.1	Introduction	241
13.2	The Repertoires of Nano Futures	243
13.3	Narratives of Responsibility	253
13.3.1	Narrative 1: Nanofutures, Boundary Work and Technology Assessment Activities in the US and Germany	253
13.3.2	Narrative 2: Responsibility as Knowledge and Technology Transfer in the United States	256
13.4	Narratives, Visions and Conflicts: Lessons for RRI?	259
	Endnotes: Building Capacity for Responsible Innovation	269
	Jonny Hankins
	Building Capacity for Responsible Innovation: Awareness and Engagement	271
