

Contents

| | |
|--------------------------------------------------------|-----------|
| Acknowledgements | xii |
| 1 Introduction: Setting the Scene | 1 |
| Overview | 1 |
| A turn | 3 |
| Bringing us into the text | 4 |
| Barbara | 5 |
| Linden | 7 |
| A question of terms and cross-cultural perspectives | 10 |
| Opposition | 11 |
| Who is the book for? | 12 |
| The structure of the book | 13 |
| Key points | 14 |
| Further reading | 15 |
| Discussion questions | 15 |
| Activities | 15 |
| 2 Biographical Methods: An Introductory History | 16 |
| Overview | 16 |
| Introduction | 16 |
| The biographical turn | 17 |
| Oral traditions and history | 17 |
| The French Revolution: a case study | 18 |
| A strong movement | 20 |
| Oral history and feminism | 21 |
| Enter the Chicago School of sociology | 22 |
| The Jack Roller | 24 |
| A decline, but keeping the spirit alive | 26 |
| More recent times – and some questions | 28 |
| Enter feminism | 29 |
| Auto/biography | 31 |
| Critical theory and post-structuralism | 31 |
| Psychology | 32 |
| Education and the study of adult learning | 34 |
| Looking forward | 35 |
| Key points | 35 |
| Further reading | 36 |

| | |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------|-----------|
| Discussion questions | 36 |
| Activities | 36 |
| 3 Mapping the Contemporary Uses of Biographical Research | 38 |
| Overview | 38 |
| All biographers now | 38 |
| Moving to particulars | 39 |
| Mapping the territory | 39 |
| Biographical research in sociology and social policy | 40 |
| Eastern Europe | 41 |
| Truth and reconciliation | 42 |
| Caring, carers and families | 43 |
| Families and pearls | 44 |
| Sure Start | 46 |
| Crime | 47 |
| Biography, health studies and health care professionals | 48 |
| Nurses and nursing | 50 |
| Biographical research, teachers and lifelong learning | 51 |
| Radical territory | 52 |
| Biographies and community development | 53 |
| Interdisciplinarity | 54 |
| Key points | 55 |
| Further reading | 55 |
| Discussion questions | 56 |
| 4 Identifying Some Theoretical Issues | 57 |
| Overview | 57 |
| Introduction | 57 |
| Barbara's approach | 59 |
| George Herbert Mead | 60 |
| Moving on | 61 |
| Feminism | 64 |
| Critical theory | 67 |
| Linden's approach | 68 |
| Connecting inner and outer worlds | 68 |
| Things shared | 70 |
| Transitional processes | 71 |
| Gendered subjectivities | 71 |
| Doctor's biographies | 73 |
| A critical note | 73 |
| Developing a categorisation | 74 |
| Conclusion | 75 |
| Key points | 75 |
| Further reading | 76 |
| Discussion questions | 76 |
| Activities | 76 |

| | |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| 5 Illustrating Good Practice: Case Studies | 77 |
| Overview | 77 |
| Families and their interactions with agencies | 78 |
| New Labour | 78 |
| The method | 79 |
| Sure Start: a sustaining space? | 80 |
| Working and learning in the inner city | 84 |
| Crisis and an epiphany | 85 |
| Learning to be a teacher | 86 |
| Rupal | 86 |
| Class, gender, ethnicity and learning in higher education | 88 |
| Gender, class and biographical approaches | 89 |
| Paula | 89 |
| Mark | 92 |
| Making connections | 95 |
| Key points | 95 |
| Further reading | 96 |
| Discussion questions | 96 |
| 6 Getting Started in Research | 97 |
| Overview | 97 |
| Introduction | 97 |
| What to research? | 98 |
| The role of the self in choosing a topic | 99 |
| Identifying research questions and the research process | 102 |
| Choosing a sample | 104 |
| Sampling: troubling to students | 105 |
| Opportunistic sampling | 107 |
| Criterion, theoretical, purposeful/purposive sampling | 107 |
| Snowball sampling | 108 |
| Preparing yourself for undertaking interviews | 109 |
| Conclusion | 111 |
| Key points | 112 |
| Further reading | 112 |
| Discussion questions | 112 |
| Activities | 112 |
| 7 Interviewing and Recording Experience | 113 |
| Overview | 113 |
| A creative act | 114 |
| On description and using the moment | 114 |
| The contribution of feminist research and the positioning of the researcher | 115 |
| Only women? | 116 |
| Psychoanalytic perspectives | 117 |
| Differing approaches to interviews | 119 |

| | |
|----------------------------------------------------|------------|
| The interview as transitional space | 121 |
| Starting | 122 |
| Finishing an interview | 123 |
| Practising, using recorders and transcribing | 124 |
| Being a good enough biographical interviewer | 125 |
| Key points | 126 |
| Further reading | 126 |
| Discussion questions | 126 |
| Activities | 127 |
| 8 Making Sense of Biography: Analysis | 128 |
| Overview | 128 |
| Introduction | 128 |
| Humanistic and subjectivist approaches to analysis | 130 |
| Barbara's approach to analysis | 130 |
| Coding | 132 |
| Linden's approach to analysis | 135 |
| Using and developing a proforma | 137 |
| Other ways of analysing biographical narratives | 141 |
| Grounded theory | 141 |
| 'Objectivist' approaches | 142 |
| Computer-based analysis | 143 |
| Conclusion | 144 |
| Key points | 144 |
| Further reading | 145 |
| Discussion questions | 145 |
| Activities | 145 |
| 9 Representing the Stories: Writing Up | 147 |
| Overview | 147 |
| Introduction | 147 |
| Dissolving boundaries? | 148 |
| Creative writing | 149 |
| Faction | 150 |
| Examples of good biographical writing | 150 |
| Writing and the self | 152 |
| Choices and other matters | 153 |
| How many cases? | 154 |
| Textual poachers | 155 |
| Starting to write | 156 |
| Who is my audience? | 157 |
| Making time, finding space | 159 |
| Writing: a problem rarely discussed | 159 |
| Summary | 160 |
| Key points | 160 |
| Further reading | 161 |

| | |
|---------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| Discussion questions | 161 |
| Activities | 161 |
| 10 Is Biographical Research Valid and Ethical? | 162 |
| Overview | 162 |
| Validity | 162 |
| History and validity | 163 |
| Conventional views | 164 |
| Family matters | 165 |
| Humanism, validity and its meanings | 167 |
| The importance of ethics | 167 |
| Thinking further about ethics | 169 |
| Ethical guidelines | 171 |
| Informed consent | 171 |
| Confidentiality, privacy and intimacy | 172 |
| Power relationships | 173 |
| Covert action | 174 |
| Biographical research and therapy | 175 |
| Summary | 176 |
| Key points | 177 |
| Further reading | 177 |
| Discussion questions | 178 |
| Activities | 178 |
| 11 On Being a Biographical Researcher | 179 |
| Overview | 179 |
| A research family: relatives, near and distant | 180 |
| Feminism and intersubjectivity | 180 |
| Transitional space and two orders of social research | 182 |
| The particular and the general | 183 |
| Theory and empiricism | 184 |
| Theory and subjectivity | 186 |
| Disciplinarity and interdisciplinarity | 187 |
| Being a researcher: learning the practice and living the life | 188 |
| Wider concerns and social policy | 189 |
| Back to the future | 189 |
| Key points | 190 |
| Discussion questions | 190 |
| Glossary | 191 |
| References | 193 |
| Index | 207 |