

Contents

A Note on Israel Zinberg	/	ix
Foreword	/	xi
Transliteration of Hebrew Terms	/	xiii
Abbreviations	/	xv

PART VI: THE JEWISH CENTER OF CULTURE IN THE OTTOMAN EMPIRE

Chapter One: THE CULTURAL FLOWERING OF TURKISH JEWRY; KARAITE SCHOLARS / 3

The favorable situation of the Jews in the Ottoman Empire—Isaac Tzorefati's summons to the German Jews—The cultural flowering of the Jewish community in Turkey—The disseminators of enlightenment and their enthusiasm for Abraham Ibn Ezra's work—The debate between Shabbetai ben Malkiel and Mordecai Comtino—Comtino as enlightener—The cultural influence of the Jewish scholars on the local Karaites—The Karaite scholars; Caleb Afendopolo's poetic work—The controversy about the Karaites; the ban as a weapon—Elijah Mizrahi and his activity—The exiles of Spain.

Chapter Two: THE SPANISH EXILES IN TURKEY AND PALESTINE; JOSEPH KARO AND SOLOMON MOLCHO / 17

The Spanish exiles in Turkey and their influence on the local Jews—New moods—The intensified interest in historical description—Isaac Akrish and Tam Ibn Yahya—Mystical hopes for messianic redemption—Emigration to Palestine—Public letters from Jerusalem—The rabbinic synod literature and the messianic Kabbalah—Jacob Berab and Jacob Ibn Habib—Joseph Karo as codifier; Bet Yosef and the Shulhan Aruch—David Reubeni and his memoirs—Solomon Molcho as a person; his sermons and his influence on Joseph Karo—Joseph Karo as mystic and author of Maggid Mesharim.

Contents

Chapter Three: MEIR IBN GABBAI; THE KABBALISTS OF SAFED / 39

Safed as center of the Kabbalah—Meir Ibn Gabbai and his Avodat Ha-Kodesh—The basic theses of Avodat Ha-Kodesh—Ibn Gabbai's attitude toward Maimonides and secular sciences—David Ibn Zimra and Solomon Alkabetz—Alkabetz as mystic and poet of the "heavenly bride"—Moses Cordovero as theoretician of the Kabbalah; his Pardes Rimmonim—Elijah de Vidas and his Reshit Hochmah—The "fear of God" and the power of repentance—The sanctification of life—The weekday and the Sabbath—Mystical experiences associated with eroticism.

Chapter Four: ISAAC LURIA AND HIS DISCIPLES / 63

Isaac Luria as a person; his life and work—Luria in Safed; his sudden death—Hayyim Vital—Don Quixote and Sancho Panza in the realm of the Kabbalah—Shivhei Vital—The theoretical foundations of Luria's Kabbalah—The broken "vessels" and the "faces" (anpin)—The problems and tasks of the practical Kabbalah—Mysteries and symbols—Rabbinic Judaism and mystical Judaism—Hayyim Vital's attitude toward the Talmud—Solomon Shlumal's letters and their significance—"A great and fearful prayer."

Chapter Five: ISRAEL NAJARA AND SHALEM SHABBEZI / 87

The poet Solomon ben Mazzal Tov—The Gavisons and their anthology Omer Ha-Shichḥab—Gedaliah Ibn Yahya and his academy for poetry—The poets Jehudah Zarko and Saadiah Longo—Isaac Onkeneira and his Ayummah Ka-Nidgalot—Menahem de Lonzano and his Shetei Yadot—The poet Israel Najara and his Meimei Yisrael—Najara and the Kabbalists of Safed—Messianic-mystical motifs in Najara's poetry—Najara's collection of songs She'erit Yisrael—Najara's new poetic forms—Najara's school—The poets of Yemen—Shalem ben Joseph Shabbezi as poet and Kabbalist.

Chapter Six: THE CULTURAL CENTER IN AMSTERDAM / 117

The great success of the Lurianic Kabbalah—The Spanish-Portuguese Marranos in the Netherlands—The new Jewish cultural center in Amsterdam—Joseph Penso and his Asirei Ha-Tikvah—Isaac Aboab de Fonseca—Messianic mysticism in the milieu of the Marranos—Menasseh ben Israel and his hope for the advent of the Messiah; his Mikveh Yisrael and Nishmat Hayyim; his relationship to the Lurianic Kabbalah—Abraham de Herrera and his Shaar Ha-Shamayim—The relationship between the heavenly “primal man” (Adam Kadmon) and the earthly man—Baruch Spinoza and his attitude toward Judaism.

Contents

Chapter Seven: THE SHABBETAI TZEVI MOVEMENT / 137

Shabbetai Tzevi as a personality—Abraham Ha-Yachini and his visions—Samuel Primo and Nathan the “prophet”—Sons and daughters of prophets—The Messiah, the king of Judah—The “mass psychosis”—Shabbetai Tzevi’s proclamations—The hymns in honor of Shabbetai Tzevi—The new prayerbooks—Hemdat Yamim and its literary significance.

Chapter Eight: PRO- AND ANTI-SABBATIANS / 161

The great disappointment—Theosophical ideas in the Sabbatian circles—Nehemiah Hayon—Abraham Michael Cardozo as mystic—His Ktav Be-Inyan Sod Ha-Elohut—The First Cause and the God of Israel—The battlers against the Shabbetai Tzevi movement—The brothers Frances and their poetic work—Their Tzevi Muddah—Jacob Sasportas and his Tzitzat Novel Tzevi—The decline of the Sephardic community.

Bibliographical Notes / 175

Glossary of Hebrew and Other Terms / 189

Index / 197