

Contents

List of illustrations	ix
Note on romanization	xi
List of contributors	xii
Acknowledgments	xvi
Introduction: Sounding and resounding Taiwan	1
NANCY GUY
1 Resounding colonial Taiwan through historical recordings: Some methodological reflections	9
YING-FEN WANG
2 Voicing alliance and refusal in 'Amis popular music	28
D.J. HATFIELD
3 Highway Nine musical stories: Musicking of Taiwanese Indigenous people at home and in the National Concert Hall	47
CHUN-BIN CHEN
4 A quest for Taiwan guoyue: The Taipei Chinese Orchestra and the making of Taiwanese musical identity	67
MING-YEN LEE
5 Experiencing the "Enchanting Golden Triangle" through music and dance in a Yunnan diasporic community in Taiwan	85
TASAW HSIN-CHUN LU
6 The making of Hakka hymns in postwar Taiwan: Negotiating identity conflicts and contextualizing Christian practices	105
HSIN-WEN HSU

viii Contents

7	Voicing gender in pak-koán theater: Social contexts and singing mechanisms	124
	CHING-HUEI LEE
8	What to preserve and how to preserve it: Taiwan's action plans for safeguarding traditional performing arts	145
	MEI-CHEN CHEN
9	Noisy co-existence: Contestations of renao and zaoyin amidst Taiwan's noise control system	165
	JENNIFER C. HSIEH
10	Listening to Taiwan's musical garbage trucks: Hearing the slow violence of environmental degradation	180
	NANCY GUY
11	From the center of Mandopop to indie music capital? The conception of "independence" and the challenges for Taiwanese musicians	197
	CHEN-YU LIN
12	Legacy, agency, and the voice(s) of Teresa Teng	213
	MEREDITH SCHWEIG
	Index	229