

Contents

	Acknowledgements	IX
	List of Figures and Tables	X
1	Introduction	1
1	Making Sense of China's Authoritarian Resilience Under Xi Jinping	1
2	Market Authoritarianism and Online Thought Work	4
3	The Revitalization of Party Media	7
4	Online Thought Work as Authoritarian Signaling	9
5	Mischaracterizing Hong Kong: The "Newspeak" of a Neo-propaganda State	12
6	The Plan of the Book	13
2	China as a Post-propaganda State: The Erosion of Market Authoritarianism in the Age of Social Media	16
1	Introduction	16
2	Market Authoritarianism: How Media Marketization Sustained Authoritarianism in China	17
3	China's State-media Relationship in the Age of Social Media: The State Losing Both Control and Influence	24
4	Chapter Conclusion	32
3	Regaining Control, Reclaiming Influence: Xi Jinping's Grand Strategy for Taming Social Media	34
1	Introduction	34
2	Setting the Stage for the New Leader: The Intensification of Online Censorship Targeting Social Media	36
3	Conceptual Developments of Xi Jinping's Thought Control Strategy (2013-2014)	40
	3.1 Showing True Colors: Main Melody, Positive Energy, and "Grand Propaganda"	40
	3.2 Social Management and Cultural Management: Xi Jinping's Blueprint for Thought Control on the Internet	43
4	Instituting and Substantializing Xi Jinping's Thought Control Strategy on the Internet	44
	4.1 Centralizing the Command Structure of the Cyber Affairs System	44
	4.2 Regaining Control: The Proposition of "Cyber Sovereignty"	46

7	Examining Framing Techniques of “Mainstream” Discourses on WeChat	120
7.1	The Discursive Strategies of Reification and Dissimulation	120
7.2	The Discursive Strategy of Legitimation	121
7.3	The Discursive Strategies of Unification and Fragmentation	121
8	Chapter Conclusion: The Prevalence of “Feel-good” Propaganda in Xi’s China	124
6	China’s Online Thought Work as Authoritarian Diplomatic Signaling	126
1	Introduction	126
2	Costly Signals and Credible Information: A Literature Review	128
3	Conceptualizing Beijing’s Authoritarian Diplomatic Signaling on Social Media	133
4	Identifying and Measuring Beijing’s Diplomatic Signaling on WeChat	137
4.1	Measuring the Information Coordination Costs	137
4.2	Measuring the Domestic Audience Costs	138
4.3	Dataset for Empirical Analyses	138
4.4	Case Studies for Empirical Analyses	140
5	Beijing’s Diplomatic Signaling During the Intensified US–China Trade Disputes (May 2019)	141
5.1	Comparing Operational Patterns of Beijing’s Diplomatic Signaling	142
5.2	Comparing Beijing’s Information Coordination Costs for Handling Trade Dispute Incidents	144
5.3	Comparing Beijing’s Domestic Audience Costs Generated by Trade Dispute Incidents	145
6	Chapter Conclusion: Diplomatic Signaling for Domestic Purposes	153
7	Misrepresenting Hong Kong: China’s Disinformation Against the Rallying Cry for Democracy	156
1	Introduction	156
2	Beijing’s Early Responses to the Anti-Extradition Bill Movement in Hong Kong	158
3	June–August 2019, a Critical Juncture	160
4	Shifting Approaches of China’s Online Influence Operations Targeting the Hong Kong Protests	163

5 Traitors, Flag Guardians, and Azhong Gege: Disinformation with Chinese Characteristics 170

6 Chapter Conclusion 177

8 China as a Neo-propaganda State 179

1 Marketized Ideological Work Matters 181

2 Ideological Work Going Abroad 183

3 A Call for Future Research 184

References 187

Index 222