

Contents

On the Series — V

Katja Castryck-Naumann

- 1 Introduction: Moving from Transnational to Transregional Connections? East-Central Europe in Global Contexts — 1

Part I: Positioning in Global Entanglements

Uwe Müller

- 2 Eastern Europe in the Wheat Crises of Globalization and Deglobalization (1870–1939) — 37

Andrzej Michalczyk

- 3 Informal Networks and Ordinary People's Agency: A Microhistory of Global Migrations from Upper Silesia, 1830s–1930s — 85

Beáta Hock

- 4 “162 Artists from over 50 Countries”: Artistic Networking in the Mainstream and on the Margins — 113

Part II: Partaking in International Politics

Ned Richardson-Little

- 5 Transnational Drug Trafficking and the German Embrace of International Narcotics Law from the Kaiserreich to the Nazis — 135

Dietmar Müller

- 6 In the Orbit of the League of Nations: International Law Debates and Networks in the Interwar Period — 159

Gilad Ben-Nun

- 7 The Polyglot Background of Eastern Europe's Jewish International Jurists and Its Talmudic Legal Origins — 191

The following reflections are based on lively discussions with the authors included in this volume about the arguments and empirical findings they present in their contributions here as well as those arising from many years of debates with colleagues who work at the crossroads of regional and global history. Among them, special thanks go to Antje Ditzze, Frank Hader, Matthias Middell, Uwe Müller, and Geert Castryck.

Part III: Inter-Regional Connections

Klemens Kaps

- 8 Trade Connections between Eastern European Regions and the Spanish Atlantic during the Eighteenth Century — 217

Michael G. Esch

- 9 Migrants from East-Central Europe in South America: Discourses
and Structures between Mission, Pogrom Escape, Human Trafficking, and “Whitening” — 259

Immanuel R. Harisch

- 10 East German Friendship Brigades and Specialists in Angola:
A Socialist Globalization Project in the Global Cold War — 291

List of Contributors — 325

Index — 329