

---

Contents

---

Acknowledgements	ix
1 Introduction: The Eichmann fires	1
Direction	5
Reading Arendt	6
2 The House of Judgment	13
Law and theatre	14
Show trial	19
3 The gray zone: Kapo trials	22
Kapo: function and role	24
Liberation and community honour courts	26
Trials in Israel	28
4 The accused	34
Jurisdiction	37
The abduction of the defendant	40
The retrospectivity of Israeli law	41
5 From expulsion to extermination	45
The rise of Nazism	47
Objective language and double speak	54
Resistance to immoral law	56
6 Wannsee: The enabling conference	58
Pontius Pilate	60
Race laws	64

7 Duties of a law-abiding citizen	68
The authority of law	69
Eichmann contra Kant	72
8 The deportation chapters	78
Anti-Jewish legislation	79
Legal status and national identity	82
Infiltration and control	84
9 Did Eichmann receive a fair trial?	87
The criminal trial	88
Credentials of a liberal trial	89
Evaluating the trial	90
10 Judgment	98
The District Court and the Supreme Court	99
Arendt's judgment of Eichmann	103
11 Reading Eichmann today	109
Inverted totalitarianism	110
Israel–Palestine	114
12 The last Nazi trials and forgiveness	120
Current Nazi trials	121
Arendt on forgiveness	123
Truth, reconciliation and the transition	126
Appendix	132
Bibliography	139
Index	154