

CONTENTS

Introduction	1
1 “May All Living Beings Benefit”: Passions of Translation	25
2 “To Search for the Solely Rational”: Engineering Tibetan Pulse Diagnosis	70
3 “The Medicine of the Future, Now Available”: Geographies of Medical Integration	106
4 “Treating Not the Illness, but the Patient”: Integrative Medicine for Dislocated Bodies	157
5 “We Are Not Iron That We Need Tempering”: The Contingencies of Mixing Medicines	194
6 “Nothing in the World That Couldn’t Be Medicinal”: The Limits of Extraction	229
Conclusion	263
Acknowledgments	281
Notes	285
Bibliography	295
Index	319