

Contents

|   |            |
|---|------------|
| Preface  | xi  |
| Acknowledgments  | xix |
| PART I A Fundamental Problem for Education and a Proposed Solution                           | 1   |
| 1 We are Learning Creatures Who Struggle to Design Effective Education Systems: Framing the Problem | 3          |
| 2 Why We Need Grounded and Embodied Learning to Improve Education                                   | 35         |
| 3 Understanding Grounded and Embodied Learning  | 59         |
| 4 Forms of Embodiment and Embodied Learning   | 87         |
| PART II The GEL Timescale  | 117 |
| 5 Embodiment in the Conscious Spectrum  | 119        |
| 6 Grounding and Embodied Learning in the Conscious Spectrum   | 141        |
| 7 Biological Basis of Learning  | 167        |
| 8 Grounding and Embodied Learning in the Biological Band  | 197        |
| 9 Sociocultural Basis of Learning   | 217        |
| 10 Grounded and Embodied Learning in the Sociocultural Band   | 245        |
| PART III Implications of GEL for Education Practice and Research                             | 273 |
| 11 Trans-Scale Considerations   | 275        |
| 12 Grounded and Embodied Learning in the Classroom and Beyond                                       | 305        |
| Index  | 335 |