

Contents

List of contributors	vi
Preface	vii
About the authors	viii
Abbreviations	ix

Section 1: Introduction to communication skills

1 How to use this book and get the most out of role play	1
2 The importance of communication skills in healthcare	4
3 Application of the Calgary–Cambridge Model	7
4 General approach to information gathering	10
5 Information giving and shared decision making	17

Section 2: System-focused communication

6 Perfecting the systems review	23
7 Psychiatry	27
8 Neurology	55
9 Orthopaedics and rheumatology	69
10 Ophthalmology	83
11 Cardiovascular medicine	91
12 Respiratory medicine	105
13 Ears, nose and throat	116
14 Gastroenterology and hepatology	128
15 Nephrology and urology	147
16 Obstetrics and gynaecology	162
17 Dermatology	185
18 Endocrinology	194

Section 3: Special situations in communication

19 Older people's medicine	205
20 Paediatrics	220
21 Taking a drug history	231
22 The consultation through an interpreter	241
23 Safeguarding vulnerable adults and children	245
24 Breaking bad news	255
25 Communicating error and conflict resolution	262
26 Communicating risk	271
27 Consenting for a procedure	278
28 Talking to colleagues	285
References	292
Index	293