

Contents

Foreword	v
Preface	vii
Acknowledgements	ix
1 Defining dyspraxia	1
2 Dyspraxia: the neurological basis	9
3 Developmental differences between the sexes	19
4 Observable characteristics	27
5 Neuropsychological assessment	41
6 Parental observations and clinical assessment	57
7 The role of the Education and Health Authorities in identifying and making provision for children with special educational needs	81
8 Optimising the educational environment	97
9 Intervention in a residential setting: Elemore Hall School	117
10 The future	127
Appendix 1: The Dyspraxia Foundation	131
Appendix 2: Dyspraxia Foundation publications	133
Appendix 3: List of local Dyspraxia Foundation co-ordinators	151
Appendix 4: Useful names and addresses	153
References	157
Index	165