

Contents

List of Figures	ix
List of Contributors	xix
Acknowledgements	xx
1 Sculpture and the decorative: Towards a more integrated mode of art history writing Imogen Hart and Claire Jones	1
2 'Exulting and adorning it in exuberant strains': Music, figuration and ornamentation in Abel Schrøder's altarpiece (Skt Morten in Næstved, Denmark) Margit Thøfner	19
3 Galathea : Ships, sculpture and the state in Golden Age Denmark Michael Hatt	47
4 An allegory of civic virtue: Sculpture and ornament in St George's Hall, Liverpool Katie Faulkner	83
5 Sculpture and the decorative in fin-de-siècle Brussels: Women as creators and consumers Marjan Sterckx	113
6 'Sacred stones guarded about with dragons': Welsh national identity in William Goscombe John's Corn Hirlas (1898) Melanie Polledri	143
7 Sculpture and the decorative at the Scottish National War Memorial Imogen Hart	167
8 Ornament and monument in German sculpture, 1910–30: Milly Steger and Renée Sintenis Nina Lübbren	189
9 Modernist sculpture and the decorative: Henri Laurens with Robert Mallet-Stevens and Le Corbusier Anna Ferrari	211
10 The decorative arts as found object: Converging domains for contemporary sculpture Lisa Wainwright	241

11	Gross domestic product: Contemporary British ceramics and the subversion of the monument Laura Gray	269
12	Fabrication and failure: Hacking the decorative in contemporary British art Bridget O’Gorman	289
	Index	313