

Public Law

Issue 1 January 2023

Table of Contents

Analysis

R. (on the application of FDA) v Prime Minister: the Ministerial Code, justiciability, and the limits of judicial review
Mike Gordon 1

How does public law deal with the “changing” decision-maker?
Gabriel Tan 9

“Let them Marry”: The curious case of Camilla’s alleged disqualification of Charles from the throne
Robert Blackburn 17

An unexpected development of legitimate expectations in Singapore—Tan Seng Kee v Attorney General [2022] SGCA 16
Kenny Chng 21

Crossing the t’s and dotting the i’s: The turn to procedural rigour in judicial review
Lee Marsons 29

Articles

Advancing a Cause: Why Section 1(1)(c) of the Terrorism Act 2000 Should Be Repealed
Annabel Smith 39

Dealing with “unworkable ideas in primary legislation”: Juridifying and Dejuridifying Competition in the English National Health Service
Mary Guy 57

Why Political Institutions (and Institutionalism) Matter
Robert Greally 81

Reforming the Law of Succession to Peerages, Baronetcies and Dignities: Identifying Problems and Exploring Solutions
Crispin Agnew and Gillian Black 104

Is Parliamentary Sovereignty Alive, Dying or Dead?
Jeffrey Goldsworthy 126

Current Survey 151

Government and Politics Journals 176