

Contents

Acknowledgments	xii
1 Introduction	1
References 8
2 China and the interplay of multiple globalizations	9
2.1 Setting the framework: two Chinas and five globalizations 9
The two Chinas 9
The two globalizations 'from above' 11
Counter-hegemonic globalization 'from below': transnational political resistance 12
Non-hegemonic globalization 'from below': the informal transnational economy 15
The Chinese-centered globalization 'from below' 18
2.2 Challenging America's international order 19
2.3 Normative power China 25
Normative power 25
Normative power China and relationality 27
A note about socialization 30
China's norms 31
2.4 China's globalization 'from above': the BRI and the socialization of political elites 37
The Chinese-centered globalization 'from above' 37
The Belt and Road Initiative 39
The BRI institutional structure 41
The BRI socialization of political elites 47
Differences 55
References 56

- 3 The Chinese entrepreneurial migrants 66
- 3.1 Conquering the Global South 66
Post-Soviet monuments and Jamaican higglers 66
From Sino-Soviet border trade to globalized migration 69
- 3.2 Key features 73
Mobility, economies of scarcity, and poor governance 74
A transnational middleman minority 76
Business and social Chinese networks 77
China as source of labor, merchandise, and capital 80
A global system of mobility 81
- 3.3 Huaqiao and Huaren: 'new' and 'old' Chinese migrants 81
- References 84
- 4 The state-migrants relationship 88
- 4.1 The evolution of China's emigration policies 89
Dynasties and Maoists: the migrant as traitor 89
A new era: the migrant as patriot 91
New discourse and understandings 92
- 4.2 Engines of emigration 93
Local governments 94
Private migration agencies 95
- 4.3 The state-diaspora relationship 96
- 4.4 The overseas Chinese state 99
- 4.5 Overseas Chinese work and united front work 105
Qiaowu 105
United front work 106
Diasporic Chinese organizations 108
Media, public diplomacy, and people-to-people cooperation 110
Youth, language, and Confucius Institutes 111
Chinese students abroad 112
- 4.6 The win-win state-migrants relationship 114
The benefits of being Chinese 114
The Chinese state's expanding role 115
Protecting ethnic Chinese non-nationals 117
- 4.7 China's benefits 119
- 4.8 Diaspora policies as projection of normative power 123
- Note 124
- References 124

- 5 China and Ghana: Globalization from below and social conditionality 129
- 5.1 A stable African democracy 129
 - 5.2 The Ghana-China relationship 131
 - Renewed partnership* 132
 - The dark side of infrastructure projects* 135
 - Society perception versus elites socialization* 139
 - 5.3 The Chinese entrepreneurial migrants in Ghana 142
 - Negative attitudes toward Chinese small traders* 144
 - Textile competition and deindustrialization* 146
 - The fragmented Chinese community* 148
 - The perceived vulnerability of Chinese entrepreneurial migrants* 149
 - 5.4 The Chinese migrants in Ghana and the Chinese state 151
 - 5.5 The Chinese social norm as social conditionality 153
 - Galamsey* 153
 - China's social conditionality* 156
 - 5.6 Of pawns and normative power 158
- Note 160
- References 160

- 6 China and Suriname: The virtuous circle of China's two globalizations 164
- 6.1 A small state on the Wild Coast 165
 - Military dictatorship* 166
 - Democracy and ambiguity* 167
 - Apanjaht consociationalism* 169
 - 6.2 Suriname's relations with China 171
 - Sino-Surinamese cooperation under President Venetiaan (2000–2010)* 172
 - Sino-Surinamese cooperation under President Bouterse (2010–2020)* 176
 - The Chinese socialization of Suriname's elites* 179
 - 6.3 The 'old' and 'new' Chinese in Suriname 180
 - Baihuo Business* 182
 - Economic success and anti-Chinese resentment* 183
 - 'Colonization,' 'conspiracy,' and the Surinamese 'soft state'* 185
 - 6.4 The Chinese migrants as intermediaries between Beijing and the Surinamese state 187
 - The Chinese migrants and ethnopolitical power-sharing in Suriname* 187

	The Chinese migrants and the overseas Chinese state	188
	China's social norm	189
	6.5 Two mutually enhancing Chinese globalizations	191
	References	192
7	China and Kyrgyzstan: Sacrificing one globalization to save the other	196
	7.1 A dictatorship once known as the 'Switzerland of Central Asia'	197
	Corruption and patronage networks	198
	A former oasis of democracy	200
	7.2 Kyrgyzstan and the new 'Great Game'	204
	The American episode	204
	Popular penniless Russians	205
	7.3 The Kyrgyzstan-China relationship	208
	China and Central Asia	208
	The Sino-Kyrgyz relationship	210
	The wider relevance of project failures	214
	7.4 Corruption and socialization	216
	7.5 The short unhappy life of Chinese entrepreneurial migrants in Kyrgyzstan	223
	Shuttle traders and bazaars	223
	Bazaars and China's entrepreneurial migrants	225
	The Chinese entrepreneurial migrants beyond the bazaars	229
	7.6 Kyrgyz Sinophobia and its consequences	230
	China's charm offensive	234
	A dramatic elites-society gap	235
	7.7 Killing a globalization	236
	Note	238
	References	238
8	China and New Zealand: Globalization from below and Beijing's management of the Chinese diaspora	245
	8.1 New Zealand and the United States: a continuing story	245
	8.2 The forging of the New Zealand-China relationship	247
	Embracing China's rise	250
	The dormant dilemma of 'compartmentalization'	252
	8.3 Trouble in paradise	253
	The reset	254
	Recalibration	256
	8.4 Socializing the political elites of a developed country	259
	The elites-society gap	263

8.5	The Chinese entrepreneurial migrants in New Zealand	266
	United front work and the Chinese migrants in New Zealand	268
	Controlling Chinese students	271
8.6	The united front instrumentalization of entrepreneurial migrants	276
	References	280
9	Analysis and conclusions	286
9.1	Defining the Chinese-centered globalization 'from below' China's policies	293
9.2	Competing globalizations	298
9.3	Some further annoying notes about theory Migrants' autonomy and Constructivism Vulnerability and relationality	304
9.4	The present and future of the Chinese-centered globalization 'from below' Scenarios	314
	References	317

Index

323