

CONTENTS

Notes on the authors	ix
List of figures	xi
List of tables	xii
Preface	xiii
PART 1 Adult learning	1
1 Introduction to adult learning	3
2 Exploring the world of learning theory	8
3 Andragogy: a theory of adult learning	18
4 The andragogical process model for learning	51
5 Andragogy in practice: expanding the usefulness of the andragogical model	72
PART 2 The backdrop of learning and teaching theories	89
6 Theories of learning	91
7 Theories of teaching	106
8 Adult learning within human resource development	148
PART 3 Advancements In adult learning	165
9 New perspectives on andragogy	167
10 Beyond andragogy	186

11	Diversity and inclusion in the adult education classroom	211
12	Neuroscience and andragogy	227
13	Andragogy and adult online learning	239
14	Effective computer-based instruction for adults	250

PART 4 International and future perspectives on andragogy 273

15	European perspectives on adult learning ( contributed by John A. Henschke and Mary Cooper )	275
16	Andragogy: history, meaning, context, and function ( contributed by Jost Reischmann )	284
17	The future of andragogy	293

PART 5 Tools and resources for implementing andragogy 307

18	Andragogical learner analysis using the andragogy in practice framework	309
19	Andragogy in practice inventory ( contributed by Reid A. Bates )	318
20	Guidelines for using learning contracts	325
21	Competency diagnostic and planning guide for adult educators/trainers	331
22	Personal adult learning style inventory	337

Bibliography	349
Index	381