

Table of Contents

Acknowledgements	3
Common abbreviations	4
Peacemakers	6
Contents	9
Foreword	11
Chapter One:	14
My Journey to Buddhism
Inside Information
Other Published Resources
The Scope of Engaged Buddhism and the Peace Movement
Methodology: Participation-Observer
Structure of the Thesis
Chapter Two:	36
Re-reading the Dharma
Suffering and Happiness
Impermanence and No-Self
Co-dependent Arising
The Bodhisattvas' Ideal
Spiritual Practice for Social Service
Non-violence and Buddhist Activists
Chapter Three:	76
Essential Issues of Engaged Buddhism
The Growth of Engaged Buddhism
Parameters of Engaged Buddhism
A Definition of Engaged Buddhism
New Interpretations of the Dharma
Should Politics and Religion Mix?
Is a Politics of Enlightenment Possible?
Two Engaged Buddhists in Early Buddhism
Rahula and the Buddhist Manifesto
The Role of Laymen
Chapter Four:	122
Vietnamese Bodhisattvas
Vietnamese Buddhism: A Balance Between Spirituality and Activism

The Struggle Movement of 1963-66

Buddhism and Patriotism

Non-Attachment: the Throne is like a Pair of Worn Shoes

A New Mandala

Chapter Five:

135

Vietnamese Buddhism and Nationalism

Buddhism and Colonialism

Foreign Missionaries and Mass Conversion

Failures of the Last Confucians

Buddhism as the Torch Bearer of Nationalism

Chapter Six:

173

The Buddhist Movement of 1963

Prelude to the Vietnam War

From an American Mandarin

To an Autocratic Catholic President

Before the 1963 Storm

The Straw that Broke the Camel's Back

The Worthless Flag

The Movement Manifesto

The Movement Leaders

The Torch of Thich Quang Duc Bodhisattva

Ngo Dinh Nhu's Deluge Campaign

Chapter Seven:

213

The Main Players in War and Peace

The Vietnamese Unified Buddhist Congregation

Bomb them Back to the Stone Age

The Generals

International Peace Movement

The Buddhist Leaders

Chapter Eight:

257

Nhat Hanh's Peace Activities

Vietnamese Engaged Buddhism

Chapter Nine:	299
The Buddhist Uprising in the Summer 1966
The Two Chaotic Years
The Final Showdown
Chapter Ten:	360
An Assessment of Vietnamese Engaged Buddhism
A New Face of Buddhism
Vietnamese Buddhism Is Always Engaged
The Critics of the Buddhist Movement
The Americans
The National Liberation Front
The Right Wing Catholics
The Right Wing Buddhists
Why Did the Buddhist Leaders Become Political Activists
Are Buddhist Leaders Power Drunk?
We Are Not an Angry Mob!
Self-Immolation Was an Act of Love
Bringing Altars into the Street
Nhat Hanh and Other Buddhist Leaders
The Impact of the Peace Movement inside Vietnam
The Impact of the Peace Movement outside Vietnam
Conclusion:	420
The Middle Path: The Politics of Enlightenment
A Journey of Awakening
Notes	435
Bibliography	457
Appendix A:	Buddhist Glossary of Terms 467
Appendix B:	People & Places 469
Appendix C:	A Time Chart of Vietnamese History 485
Appendix D:	Portrait of a Leader 490
Index	509