

Contents

Preface	V
---------------	---

Historical Outlines

Antiquity	3
Middle Ages	4
Modern Era	4
Diabetics of the Past	6
Literature and Art	9

Literary texts

A Sad Fall
Angus Wilson (1957)	15
The Song of Diabetes
Cecil Striker (1952)	27
The Clever Diabetic
Wilhelm Jaenecke (1969)	34

Texts Relating to the History of Scientific Study

General Development

The History of Diabetes mellitus
Hans Schadowaldt (1975)	43
Diabetes, Sugar Consumption and Luxury Through the Ages. A Question Posed by History
Erich Ebstein (1928)	101

Antiquity

Diabetes

Karl Kalbfleisch (1958) 109

Synonyms for Diabetes in Antiquity and Their Etymology

Hermann Orth (1964) 112

News, Notes and Queries. On the Term Diabetes in the Works of Aretaeus and Galen

Folke Henschen (1969) 120

Aretaeus the Cappadocian. His Contribution to Diabetes
Mellitus

Eugene J. Leopold (1930) 125

*India and China*Epistemological Fashions in Interpreting Disease. The Deleterious Effects of Western Terminology on the Application of the Scientific Tradition of Chinese Medicine
(illustrated by the case of diabetes mellitus vs. sitis diffundens [shiao-k'o])

Manfred Porkert (1977) 143

The Urinary Flux of the Ancient Indians, Prameha
(with Special Reference to the Carakasamhita)

Reinhold F. G. Müller (1932) 160

Renaissance – 19th Century

Paracelsus and the Sugar Disease

Hans Schadewaldt (1977) 201

The First Description of the Symptoms of Experimental Pancreatic Diabetes by the Swiss Johann Conrad Brunner
(1653–1727)

Ole Christian Zimmermann (1945) 209

John Rollo

Alexander Marble (1956) 229

- Matthew Dobson (1735?–1784).
Clinical Investigator of Diabetes Mellitus
anonymous (1967) 235
- Then and Now: 100 Years of Diabetes Mellitus
Horst and Joseph Schumacher (1956) 238
- On the Development of Anatomical Research on the Pancreas
from Vesalius to Bichat. Part I: from Vesalius to Kerckring
Hans-Michael Dittrich and Herwig Hahn von Dorsche (1975) . . 266
- On the Development of Anatomical Research on the Pancreas
from Vesalius to Bichat. Part II: from Borelli to Bichat
Hans-Michael Dittrich and Herwig Hahn von Dorsche (1978) . . 280
- From the History of Diabetes with Particular Reference to the Pancreas
Erich Ebstein (1924) 295
- First Steps in Claude Bernard's Discovery of the Glycogenic
Function of the Liver
Mirko Dražen Grmek (1968) 306
- The Priority Dispute between Claude Bernard and Victor
Hensen about the Discovery of Glycogen
Rüdiger Porep (1971) 320
- Paul Langerhans – of Islets and Islands
Günther Wolff (1978) 336
- The Discovery of Pancreatic Diabetes. The Role of Oscar
Minkowski
Bernardo Alberto Houssay (1952) 350
- Apollinaire Bouchardat 1806–1886
Elliot P. Joslin (1952) 359
- The First Case of Diabetic Retinopathy
(Eduard von Jaeger, Vienna 1853)
Franz Fischer (1957) 363

The History of Traumatic Diabetes Viggo Thomsen (1938)	370
Insulin Precursors – a Historical Sketch. The First Attempts at Treating Diabetes with Pancreatic Extracts Karl Heinz Leickert (1975).	397
Karl Petré. A Leader in Pre-Insulin Dietary Therapy of Diabetes Russell M. Wilder (1955)	405
Discovery of Insulin
On the History of the Discovery of Insulin Joseph H. Pratt (1954).	411
Problems of Priority in the Discovery of Insulin Eric Martin (1971)	420
Right and Wrong Avenues of Exploration in German Insulin Research Paula Drügemöller and Leo Norpoth (1953).	427
50 Years of Insulin Treatment at the Vienna Hospital for Children – the Fate of Diabetic Children from the First Insulin Era (1973) W. Korp and Ernst Zweymüller	437
The Beginning of the Diabetic Association in England Robert Daniel Lawrence (1952)	451
The Early History of the American Diabetes Association Cecil Striker (1956)	455
Bibliography of Primary Sources	463
Bibliography of Secondary Literature	467