

C o n t e n t s

Foreword	5
Programme of the Conference	6
The inner dimensions of the ideology of Arab socialism, by Karel Petráček	9
The influence of Islam and Arab thought on Africa south of the Sahara today, by L. Kropáček	18
Some aspects of African socialist ideology, by Ladislav Venyš	35
The traditional Chinese conception of the indivisibility of sovereign power and its modern version, by Augustin Palát	44
The pro-Japanese orientation of the Burmese nationalists 1939-1942, by Jan Bečka	53
Relations between India and Pakistan after the Tashkent Conference, by Jan Marek	61
The influence of the regime in South Africa on political and economic conditions in Africa, by Otakar Hulec	70
Indian post-war initiative in promoting Asian solidarity, by Miloslav Krása	81
Relations between the Mongols and the Jurchens in the thirteenth century, according to Mongol and Manchu chronicles, by Pavel Poucha	93
Integration tendencies in the developing countries, by Arnošt Tauber	99
Political and economic relations between the Maghreb countries, by Květa Stránská	113
The opportunities and the obstacles before economic co-operation and integration in the countries of East Africa, by Jan Vraný	124

Armenian Culture in the Near East, by Ludmila Motalová	150
The mutual influences of Asian cultures in South East Asia, by Dagmer Bečková - Eva Vaníčková	160
The two literary centres of Black Africa, by Vladimír Klíma	168
The non-Indo-European linguistic substratum in the Indo-European languages of India, with reference to the Ashokan Inscriptions, by Jaroslav Vacek	176