

Contents

Figures	xi
About the Author	xiii
Prefaces by Barbara B. Tillett and Peter Lor	xv
Acknowledgements	xix
List of Acronyms	xxi
1 Cataloguing and Metadata Creation. The Centrality of a Cultural and Technical Activity	1
2 Panta Rei	5
2.1 Metanoia	5
2.2 New concepts and new terminology	9
2.3 Metadata: a polysemantic term	14
2.4 Libraries, Semantic Web and linked data: the data librarian	16
2.5 Metadata and bibliographic control	19
2.6 The importance of the catalogue	21
2.7 Two pitfalls for cataloguing and the catalogue?	23
2.8 How catalogues have to change to be of the web and not just on the web	24
2.9 New discovery tools: data.bnf.fr	26
3 Principles and Bibliographic Models	29
3.1 Bibliographic models	29
3.2 Paris Principles	30
3.3 ICP	31
3.4 FRBR	37
3.5 FRAD	40
3.6 FRSAD	41
3.7 FRBRoo	41

3.8	IFLA LRM	42
3.9	Family of works	46
4	Description of Resources	49
4.1	Description: a cultural and technical process	49
4.2	A new way to describe	50
4.3	Object of the description	51
4.4	Resource analysis: the bibliographic analysis	52
4.5	Sources of information	55
4.6	Main sources of information to describe a book	56
4.7	Types of description	57
4.8	Levels of description	59
5	Access to Resources	61
5.1	Access: authority data	61
5.2	Relationships	64
5.3	Author and title	67
5.4	Authority control: authorised access point	69
5.5	Entity identifiers	71
5.6	VIAF	73
5.7	ISNI	75
6	Exchange Formats and Descriptive Standards:	77
	MARC and ISBD
6.1	MARC, UNIMARC, MARC21	77
6.2	BIBFRAME	81
6.3	ISBD	84
6.4	ISBD: Consolidated Edition	87
6.5	ISBD: purposes	88
7	RDA: Some Basics	91
8	Subject Cataloguing (or Subject Indexing): Some Basics	97
	Afterword by Giovanni Bergamin	99
	Endnotes	101
	Bibliography	105
	Index	119