

Contents

9 Foreword	13 Ai Weiwei The Multiple Predicaments and Upturns of Chinese Contemporary Art	59 Icons of the 70s vs. Icons of the 80s
11 Rules	15 Uli Sigg in Conversation with Matthias Frehner Access to China	79 Mao and the Cultural Revolution
	25 Li Xianting Contemporary Chinese Art and a Declining Culture	97 Power Play
	29 Hou Hanru Longing for Paradise, Negotiating with the Real: Looking at the Chinese Art Scene Today	121 Myths and Legends
	35 Pi Li Between Scylla and Charybdis: The New Context of Chinese Contemporary Art since 2000	137 Individual vs. Society
	37 Estelle Bories Contemporary Chinese Art: A Market Report	173 Consumerism
	41 Bernhard Fibicher Cultural Partnerships, Maybe More: On the Reception of Contemporary Chinese Art in the West	187 Contemporary Life
	49 “Chineseness”—Is There Such a Thing? A Letter from Uli Sigg to the Artists Taking Part in Mahjong—and Their Responses	219 City vs. Countryside
		245 Tradition Revisited
		265 Chinese Perspectives on Western Art
		283 Writing as Painting
		299 Body as Medium
		324 Feng Boyi Chronology
		357 Therese Bhattacharya-Stettler Short Biographies