

Contents

List of Maps	page	xvi
About the Authors		xvii
Preface		xix
Acknowledgments		xxxi
Introduction: Latin American Politics and Society		1
The Historical Overview		2
Modern States and Four Core Issues		3
Historical Origin and Evolution		6
Historical Novelties and Legacies		8
The Contemporary Period		9
Problems of and for Democracy		9
Poor-Quality Democracies and Few Public Goods		10
Next Steps		13
Part I A Historical Overview
1 The State and State Capacity		17
1.1 Concepts and Overview		18
1.1.1 The State and the Modern State		18
1.1.2 State Capacity		20
1.1.3 The State and State Capacity in Latin America		21
1.2 Before Modern States		22
1.2.1 Pre-Columbian Times		22
1.2.2 Spanish and Portuguese Colonial Rule		23
1.3 The Formation of Modern States, 1810–1875		26
1.3.1 Independence		27
1.3.2 Anarchy		30
1.3.3 State Formation		30
1.4 The Problem of State Capacity, 1875–2010s		34
1.4.1 The Origins of Weak States		35
1.4.2 The Persistence of Weak States		37
1.4.3 The Weakness of Contemporary States		40

1.5	Summary	43
	Discussion Questions	44
	Resources	45
2	Nation Building, Race, and Ethnicity	49
2.1	Concepts and Overview	50
2.1.1	The Nation	50
2.1.2	Nation Building, Race, and Ethnicity	50
2.1.3	Nation Building in Latin America	51
2.2	Before Modern States	52
2.2.1	Race and Ethnicity in the Colonies	52
2.2.2	Miscegenation and Manumission	55
2.2.3	The Abolition of Slavery	57
2.2.4	A Balance Sheet	59
2.3	Elite Vision of the Nation, 1880–1930	59
2.3.1	Mass Migration and Whitening	60
2.3.2	Censuses and the Image of the Nation	61
2.3.3	Education and Military Service	62
2.4	The National-Popular Vision, 1930–1980	64
2.4.1	The People Versus the Elites	65
2.4.2	The Centrality of Anti-imperialism and Class	65
2.4.3	Mestizaje , Indigenismo , and Racial Democracy	66
2.5	A Plural Vision of the Nation, 1980–2010s	69
2.5.1	Indigenous Peoples and the Nation	70
2.5.2	Afro-Descendants and the Nation	74
2.6	Summary	77
	Discussion Questions	78
	Resources	78
3	Political Regimes and Democracy	82
3.1	Concepts and Overview	83
3.1.1	Political Regimes and Democracy	83
3.1.2	Regimes and Democracy in Latin America	85
3.2	Oligarchic Dominance and Authoritarian Regimes, 1880–1930	87
3.2.1	The Power of the Oligarchy	87
3.2.2	Varieties of Regimes	87
3.3	The Transition to Mass Politics and Regime Instability, 1930–1980	95
3.3.1	Initial Democratic Failures and Successes	95
3.3.2	Populism and Military Coups	101
3.3.3	The Cuban Revolution and Violent Authoritarianism	103
3.3.4	A Balance Sheet	109

3.4	A New Democratic Age, 1980–2010s	112
3.4.1	The Third Wave of Democratization	112
3.4.2	Why Did Latin America Democratize?	114
3.4.3	The Post-Transitional Experience with Democracy	116
3.5	Summary	116
	Discussion Questions	117
	Resources	118
4	Development Models and Socioeconomic Welfare	123
4.1	Concepts and Overview	124
4.1.1	Socioeconomic Welfare	124
4.1.2	Models of Economic Development	126
4.1.3	Development Models and Welfare in Latin America	128
4.2	The Agro-Export Model, 1880–1930	128
4.2.1	Meeting European and US Demand for Raw Materials	128
4.2.2	Markets with Little Social Policy	128
4.2.3	Moderate But Unequal Progress	134
4.2.4	The Great Depression	137
4.3	The Import-Substitution Industrialization Model, 1930–1980	138
4.3.1	Internal Adjustments and a Homegrown Model	138
4.3.2	State-Led Development with Partial Social Coverage	139
4.3.3	Strong Progress	142
4.3.4	Internal Limits and the Foreign Debt Crisis	145
4.4	The Neoliberal Model, 1980–2010s	147
4.4.1	External Pressure and a Model Elaborated in Washington	147
4.4.2	A Return to Markets and Retrenchment in Social Policy	148
4.4.3	Challenges and Reforms	152
4.4.4	Slow Progress	154
4.5	Summary	158
	Discussion Questions	159
	Resources	159
Part II	Problems of Democracy in a Democratic Age
5	Democracy and the Quality of Democracy: The Never-Ending Quest	165
5.1	Democracy and the Quality of Democracy	166
5.2	The State of Democracy	168
5.2.1	An Overview of Achievements	168
5.2.2	A Catalog of Problems	172
5.2.3	A Synthesis of the Problems	178
5.2.4	Problems of Democracy in a Democratic Age	182

5.3	Explaining Democracy	182
5.3.1	Ideology and the Politics of Neoliberalism	183
5.3.2	The International Context	189
5.3.3	Power and the State	192
5.4	Summary	196
	Discussion Questions	197
	Resources	198
6	Political Inclusion and Institutional Innovations: Women, Indigenous Peoples, Afro-Descendants, and Ordinary People	201
6.1	Democracy, Political Inclusion, and Inclusive Institutions	202
6.1.1	The Inclusion of Disadvantaged Groups in Decision-Making	202
6.1.2	Institutions as Avenues of Inclusion	203
6.2	Women in Political Office	205
6.2.1	A Story of Considerable Progress	205
6.2.2	An Explanation of Women's Gains	210
6.3	Indigenous Peoples and Afro-Descendants in Political Office	218
6.3.1	Fewer Gains than Those by Women	219
6.3.2	An Explanation of the Failure to Match Women's Gains	223
6.4	Ordinary People Making Government Decisions	227
6.4.1	Participatory Budgeting	227
6.4.2	Prior Consultation and Indigenous Peoples	229
6.5	Summary	232
	Discussion Questions	233
	Resources	233
7	Political Parties and the Citizen–Politician Link: The Persistent Crisis of Representation	238
7.1	Democracy, Political Parties, and Political Representation	239
7.1.1	Electoral Vehicles and Programmatic Party Organizations	239
7.1.2	Parties and Democracy	240
7.2	The State of Parties and Political Representation	242
7.2.1	The (Partial and Complete) Deconstruction of Party Systems	243
7.2.2	The (Difficult and Unsettled) Reconstruction of Party Systems	246
7.2.3	The Nature of Contemporary Party Systems	249
7.2.4	A Balance Sheet	251
7.3	Explaining Parties and Political Representation	252
7.3.1	Economic Crisis and the Conflict over Neoliberalism	252
7.3.2	Leadership, Activism, Social Movements, and Resources	255
7.3.3	The Weight of a Weak State	264
7.4	Summary	265

Discussion Questions	266
Resources	266
Part III Civil Rights as a Problem for Democracy
8 The Protection of Civil Rights: A Pending Task for Democracies	273
8.1 The Concept of Civil Rights	274
8.1.1 Agreements about the Meaning of Civil Rights	275
8.1.2 Debates about the Meaning of Civil Rights	276
8.1.3 A Working Definition of Civil Rights	276
8.2 The State and the Significance of Civil Rights	278
8.2.1 Equality before the Law, the Right to Life, and Due Process Rights	279
8.2.2 Liberty Rights and Freedom from Discrimination	283
8.2.3 A Balance Sheet	294
8.3 Explaining Achievements and Problems of Civil Rights	298
8.3.1 The Promise and Limits of Democracy	298
8.3.2 Social Mobilization and International Networks	300
8.3.3 The Judiciary	301
8.3.4 The State's Public Administration and Security Forces	302
8.4 Summary	303
Discussion Questions	304
Resources	304
9 Transitional Justice: Responses to Past Human Rights Violations	310
9.1 What Is Transitional Justice?	311
9.1.1 The Aims of Transitional Justice	311
9.1.2 A Debate about Truth and Justice	313
9.1.3 Our Approach to Transitional Justice	314
9.2 Describing the State of Transitional Justice	314
9.2.1 Two Scenarios Where Transitional Justice Is Relevant	314
9.2.2 Truth and Truth Commissions	317
9.2.3 Justice, Trials, and Amnesties	324
9.2.4 The False Choice between Truth and Justice	330
9.3 Explaining Transitional Justice: Case Studies	331
9.3.1 Brazil and Mexico: Justice Denied	332
9.3.2 El Salvador and Guatemala: Partial Justice	333
9.3.3 Chile and Argentina: Justice Prevails	335
9.4 Explaining Transitional Justice: General Reflections	339
9.4.1 Democracy and Transitional Justice	339
9.4.2 Civil Society and International Networks	341
9.4.3 The Judiciary and International Law	343

9.5 Summary	344
Discussion Questions	345
Resources	346
10 High-Level Corruption: Public Officials against the Public Interest	350
10.1 High-Level Corruption as a Civil Rights Issue	351
10.1.1 High-Level Corruption	351
10.1.2 The Civil Rights at Stake	352
10.2 Describing the State of High-Level Corruption	353
10.2.1 Political and Administrative Corruption	353
10.2.2 The Judicial Response to Corruption	360
10.2.3 Corruption as a Systemic Problem for Democracy	363
10.3 Explaining High-Level Corruption: Case Studies	364
10.3.1 Brazil: Judicial Action against Politicians and Business Elites	365
10.3.2 Mexico: Passivity in the Face of State-Organized Crime Collusion	370
10.3.3 Guatemala: International Assistance against Elites	373
10.4 Explaining High-Level Corruption: General Reflections	376
10.4.1 Democracy and Corruption	376
10.4.2 The State's Public Administration	377
10.4.3 The Judiciary	378
10.4.4 Civil Society and the International Community	379
10.5 Summary	381
Discussion Questions	382
Resources	383
11 The New Violence: Homicides, Drugs, and the State	386
11.1 Violence and the Right to Life	387
11.2 Describing the State of the New Violence	387
11.2.1 The Scope and Scale of Homicides	388
11.2.2 Who Gets Killed?	389
11.2.3 Who Are the Killers?	390
11.2.4 Violence as a Systemic Problem for Democracy	394
11.3 Explaining the New Violence: Case Studies	396
11.3.1 Mexico: Drug Cartels, Politicians, and Security Forces	398
11.3.2 The Northern Triangle: Gangs, Cartels, and Public Officials	408
11.4 Explaining the New Violence: General Reflections	413
11.4.1 The Global Drug Trade	414
11.4.2 The Absent State and the Present State	416
11.4.3 Democracy and State Building	419
11.5 Summary	422
Discussion Questions	422
Resources	423

Part IV Social Rights as a Problem for Democracy

12 Social Rights in Law and Reality: The Dilemmas of Democracy in Unequal Societies

12.1 The Concept of Social Rights	432
12.1.1 Debates about the Notion of Social Rights	432
12.1.2 A Working Definition of Social Rights	436
12.2 The State and Significance of Social Rights	438
12.2.1 Aspirational and Justiciable Rights	438
12.2.2 A First Approximation	439
12.2.3 Bringing Disparities into the Equation	447
12.2.4 A Balance Sheet	451
12.3 Explaining Achievements and Problems of Social Rights	454
12.3.1 Democracy and Ideology	454
12.3.2 Social Mobilization and Participatory Institutions	457
12.3.3 State Capacity	459
12.4 Summary	459
Discussion Questions	460
Resources	461

13 Sustainable Development and Neoextractivism: Growth, the Environment, and Social Action

13.1 Neoextractivism, Socioeconomic Welfare, and Sustainable Development	465
13.1.1 Models of Development and Neoextractivism	465
13.1.2 Assessing Neoextractivism	466
13.2 Neoextractivism and Its Impact	467
13.2.1 The Scope and Scale of Extractive Activities	467
13.2.2 The Pros and Cons of Neoextractivism	470
13.2.3 Neoextractivism as a Problem of Social Rights	471
13.3 Explaining the Contestation of Neoextractivism: Case Studies	472
13.3.1 Failed Contestation: Peru and Ecuador	472
13.3.2 Successful Contestation: Bolivia	478
13.4 Explaining the Contestation of Neoextractivism: General Reflections	481
13.4.1 Democracy and Participatory Institutions	481
13.4.2 Ideology and Presidential Leadership	482
13.4.3 Local Mobilizational Capacity	483
13.4.4 State Capacity	484
13.5 Summary	484
Discussion Questions	485
Resources	486

14 Basic Social Inclusion and Social Policy: CCTs as a Poverty Reduction Policy	489
14.1 What Is Basic Social Inclusion?	490
14.2 Describing the State of Social Inclusion	491
14.2.1 Three Obstacles Related to Old Social Policies	491
14.2.2 New Social Policies and Social Inclusion	498
14.3 Explaining Social Inclusion: Case Studies and Comparative Analyses	502
14.3.1 Mexico and Brazil as Leading Cases	502
14.3.2 The Diffusion of CCTs	506
14.3.3 The Evolving Assessment of CCTs	508
14.4 Explaining Social Inclusion: General Reflections	510
14.4.1 Democracy	510
14.4.2 Political Ideology	511
14.4.3 International Diffusion	512
14.4.4 State Capacity	513
14.5 Summary	514
Discussion Questions	515
Resources	515
15 Unequal Democracies: The Paradox of Political Equality and Social Inequality	517
15.1 Inequality as a Problem of Social Rights	518
15.1.1 Brazil's Rolezinhos	518
15.1.2 Chile's Territorialization of Inequality	520
15.2 The State of Income Inequality	525
15.2.1 Inequality over Time	525
15.2.2 Inequality Unpacked	527
15.2.3 A Balance Sheet	530
15.3 Explaining Income Inequality	530
15.3.1 The Promise of Democracy	531
15.3.2 The Limits of Democracy	532
15.4 The Vulnerability of Unequal Democracies	538
15.4.1 Legitimacy Crises and Social Protests	538
15.4.2 Chile as a Warning Sign against Complacency	539
15.5 Summary	541
Discussion Questions	542
Resources	543
Conclusion
16 Latin America in Perspective: Lessons and Prospects	547
16.1 The Historical Overview	547
16.2 The Contemporary Period	548

16.2.1 Progress on Easy Problems, Failure on Hard Problems	548
16.2.2 The Interaction between Problems of and for Democracy	550
16.3 A New Horizon	551
Appendix: A Timeline of Latin America	552
Glossary	556
References	570
Index	605

the University of Southern California (USC) Professor of Latin American Studies and Director of the Center for Latin American Studies. He moved to the United States during the military regime in Argentina to study, and received an MA in Latin American Studies and a PhD in Political Science from the University of Illinois at Chicago. He has taught courses on Latin American Studies, comparative politics, and political theory. Dr. Münch's research focuses on democratic transitions in Latin America, and methodological issues in political science. His book Legacies: Insights and Methods from a Political Science Fieldwork (2016) was published by the University of Chicago Press. He has also published Quality Institutional Trip: Democracy in Latin America (2015) and Scholarship and Politics (2009). Regimes and Democracy in Latin America (2007), Passion, Craft, and Method in Comparative Politics (2005), and Authoritarianism and Democratization: Soldiers and Women in Latin America (2004) were also published. His book Authoritarianism and Democratization: Soldiers and Women in Latin America (2004) was selected as one of the best books of the year by the New York Times. His article "Conceptualizing Democratization" (Comparative Political Studies, 2008) was selected as one of the best articles of the year by the Journal of Democracy. He is a member of the International Committee on Concepts and Methods (C&M) and the Faculty of Latin American Studies (FLACSO), Mexico. His research focuses on the quality of democracy and the role of institutions in democratic transitions. Article in Democratization in 2016.

He has worked in the field of democracy for over 20 years. He worked on Democracy in Latin America (2004), a report of the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP), and has been active in various initiatives to promote and monitor democracy. He was a member of the International Expert Panel of the Open Government Partnership (OGP), and a member of the Expert Advisory Board for the development of International IDEA's Global Democracy Index. He has consulted for the UNDP, the Organization of American States (OAS), the World Bank, the Inter-American Development Bank (IDB), and the United States Agency for International Development (USAID).

Dr. Juan Pablo Luna is Professor of Political Science at the Pontificia Universidad Católica de Chile. Professor Luna grew up in Montevideo, Uruguay. At age 10 he witnessed the country's transition from dictatorship to democracy, a watershed event that prematurely shaped