

Content

Preface	11
Florian Steger, Marcin Orzechowski, Giovanni Rubeis and Maximilian Schochow
Introduction	13
I. Ethical Aspects
Giovanni Rubeis
Mental healthcare in migrants from the perspective of public health ethics: clinical factors, cultural diversity, and access barriers	31
Vera Vogel
Healthcare for refugees suffering from psychiatric disorders: an overview of the current care provision in Germany	47
Ivana Tucak
Cultural differences and informed consent	65
Pranab Rudra
Physician-patient relationship models in Bangladesh and Germany	87
Sylvia Agbih
Understanding vulnerability and deliberations on justice – the case of health care for refugees and asylum seekers in Germany	105

Content

Ivana Zagorac

The power of empathy in the treatment of vulnerable subjects . 126

Katharina Fürholzer

Narration without borders. Migration, narrative medicine, and témoignage in the public work of Médecins Sans Frontières (Doctors Without Borders) 140

II. Legal aspects

Pedro A. Villarreal

Differential treatment in the international health regulations: towards a nuanced perspective 157

Katarina Weilert

The human right to health in public international law with particular reference to asylum-seekers, refugees, and migrants and its reception in German law 172

III. Societal Aspects

Frank Kressing and Maximilian Schochow

Aspects of migration, culture and health care in Germany's past and present 197

Tamara Schwertel

Difficulties in the trajectories: An investigation of care structures for refugees suffering from tuberculosis in Germany 217

Robert Doričić

The challenges of the migration crisis in Croatia – the Primorje-Gorski Kotar county and the city of Rijeka example 235

Prerna Thaker and Ravi Rao

Challenges faced by refugees to access health care in Germany . 253

Tarek Mahjoub

What it takes to fit in: an opinion piece on the integration of adolescent refugee migrants in Germany 272

Iva Rinčić and Amir Muzur

Migrants' health and European culture: strengthening ties for better understanding. The case of Rijeka 2020 European Capital of Culture 286

Wielant Machleidt

The importance of strangeness experiences for ego-constitution and society 301

Addresses for correspondence 315